Claxton Turns Brigade Over To Eisenhower

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands, Nov. 21 (CP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took Canada's 27th Brigade under his wing today and welcomed its red-capped troops as a symbol of the fact that "Canada is with us in the area of danger."

Canada's Defense Minister, Brooke Claxton, turned the brigade over to the leader of the Atlantic Pact army in Europe in a brilliant ceremony in a cobbled square before Rotterdam's city hall. A crowd of 25,000 silent Netherlanders watched the ceremony.

As 1,200 Canadians, just off the ship from home, stood in a light drizzle, Eisenhower spoke with emphasis and conviction that he was proud and glad to meet Canadian infantry anywhere.

But, he said, every Allied soldier in Europe will welcome the brigade not only because of Canada's battle record but because the brigade's arrival means that "Canada is not only with us in the production and other fields but actually in the area where danger occurs."

The troops arriving today made up practically all of the 1st Canadian Infantry battalion. Previously an advance party had arrived to prepare for the main body of the brigade. A second contingent, made up of miscellaneous groups, arrived last week. A fourth contingent is at sea and a fifth group will leave Canada Monday.

The ceremony of handing over command was a spectacle of color and pomp enacted in this city where liberating Canadians marched in May, 1945, and where fine tall buildings now alternate with gaping wounds from the mass German bombing of 1940.

The Crowd Was Undemonstrative

There were few cheers from the people of this port city of 800,000 and they were mainly for Eisenhower as he inspected the troops and moved briskly along the lines of infantry and engineers drawn up in front of the ornate city hall. It was a far from unfriendly crowd, but it was undemonstrative.

Inevitably a few peace leaflets showed but that was the one sign of Communist sentiment.

The leaflets were thrown out of an office window as the troops marched off.

Eisenhower and Claxton struck home the point that Atlantic pact armies are being built not to make war, but to preserve peace that could only be preserved throughs strength.

Eisenhower, speaking from a platform heavy with top-hatted diplomats and red-braided military officers of a half dozen countries, addressed the Canadians as "fellow soldiers."

In reference to the spectacular red berets of the First Infantry Battalion, he said if anyone won the right to a beret of its own choice it was the Canadian infantry man.

The parade was commanded by Lt.-Col. J. E. L. Castonguay of Montreal, commanding officer of the infantry battalion.

The soldiers in battle dress stood a half-hour in fairly heavy rain before the ceremony began. Then the sun came out and hid behind the clouds again.

The soldiers looked smart as they marched off after a nine-day voyage from Quebec, which ended early this morning.

They deft later by train for Hanover, Germany.

Claxton flew to Paris this afternoon to join Canada's external affairs minister, L. B. Pearson, for a flight to Rome to attend a N.A.T.O. meeting.

In a brief speech he clashed directly with the views expressed in the Communist leaflets, which said Canadians were welcomer here in 1945 but their 1951 arrival "coincides with preparations for a new war."

Claxton reiterated the theme that the troops are not here to make war but to prevent war.

Prior to the ceremony Claxton annonuced that Canada will build four or five new airdromes in western Europe to field an 11-squadron jet air division. He estimated the cost at $100,000,000.

New Milk Increase Threatens

Dairymen Seeking Boost To Producer

Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association will apply to the B.C. Milk Board soon for an increase in price paid to producers, an association spokesman said today.

If the increase is granted, it will mean another boost in the retail price of milk on the island.

The producers will not ask for a specific increase, it was indicated. Most likely they will ask the board to grant an increase which it thinks will cover the increased cost of production.

The price paid to producers is now $5.90 per 100 pounds of milk. When this price was set by the board about three months ago, a three-cent increase in the price to consumers was necessitated.

Producers, not satisfied with the $5.90 price, appealed to the board to reconsider, but failed. Later, they made another application and again were refused.

FEED PRICES UP

Now, armed with further facts and figures on increased costs of production they are going after an increase again. Producers will use substantial increases in oats and dairy feed as one argument for a boost. The two have increased $13 and $17 a ton, respectively, since the milk board hearing here last August.

Meanwhile, at the association's annual meeting at Duncan Tuesday night, Henry G. Robinson, secretary, said dissolution of the milk board is expected next spring "without any action by us."

The meeting criticized what was termed "pollution" of Vancouver Island milk by Fraser Valley milk. An association director said a large percentage of Victoria and Duncan milk has a lot of four-day-old Fraser Valley milk in it.

A motion was passed calling for carrying out of tests. Details will be worked out later.

New Hope For Truce By Dec. 25

MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 21 (AP) — Truce hopes brightened today when Communist negotiators submitted a cease-fire plan of their own that could open the way for a Korean armistice by Christmas.

It was similar to a United Nations' plan for creating a buffer zone along the present fighting line, to take effect if an armistice is signed within 30 days.

A U.N. command communique referred to the resemblance as superficial.

But the command's official spokesman, Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, said if the Red plan "means what we think it means . . . then I think we are very close to solution" of the buffer-zone question.

The point in doubt was whether the Communist proposal means "that troops will be withdrawn from the buffer zone after an armistice is signed," as the U.N. has proposed.

After the Communists submitted their counter-proposal Wednesday, Allied negotiators tried to determine whether the Reds contemplated an immediate or delayed withdrawal from a buffer zone to be created along the present front.

PREPARE REVISIONS

At the close of the session Maj.-Gen. Henry I. Hodes, heading the U.N. sub-committee, told the Red delegates "We will present you with the necessary revisions to clear up this proposal" at Thursday's meeting.

Under questioning by Hodes, North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Song Cho said "The troops will be withdrawn after the agreement is signed."

He did not say whether he referred to the cease-fire line proposal now before the sub-committees or the final armistice agreement. And U.N. delegates did not ask. They are expected to clarify this Thursday.

Both sides agree fighting will continue until a final armistice is reached. But to insure this, the U.N. command wants the agreement to say specifically troops will not be withdrawn from the proposed demilitarized area until all truce terms are settled.

VANDENBERG OPPOSES USE OF A-BOMB IN KOREA WAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (UP) — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg said today that there are no targets in North Korea to warrant the use of atomic bombs by United Nations forces.

The air force chief of staff told a news conference that he could see no justification for using atomic bombs of the kind now stockpiled where the job could be done with conventional weapons.

Vandenberg, who recently returned from an inspection tour of the Korean battle front, said it is impossible for U.S. planes to gain "true" air supremacy there without bombing Communist air bases in Manchuria.

But he said any decision to do so is a "policy decision which must be taken by the United States and its United Nations Allies."

Charges Reds Carrying On Campaign Of Murder

UP Staff Correspondent

PUSAN, Korea, Nov. 21 (UP) — South Korean President Syngman Rhee charged today that the Communists have begun systematically wiping out millions of pro-Allied North Koreans.

He confirmed an Eighth Army war crimes report that the Reds already have slain 7,000 South Korean troops and 250,000 South Korean civilians and added:

"In addition . . . they are right now carrying on a campaign of murder never before exampled in the history of civilized man. Millions of Korean citizens in North Korea are being systematically starved and frozen to death.

"All of those who joyously welcomed the liberating armies a year ago are marked for destruction. They are forced to give up all their food supplies as proof of renewed loyalty to the Communists.

"Warm clothing and bedding is taken from them. They are left nothing, and the sooner they die, the better it pleases the bestial invaders."

Rhee said the South Korean government welcomed suggestions that Communist leaders be tried for war crimes against Allied war prisoners and civilians.

He said the murders of South Korean troops and civilians reported by Col. James M. Hanley, chief war crimes investigator for the Eighth Army, comprised "deliberate and cold-blooded mass killings."

Still worse, however, is the Communist campaign against Allied sympathizers in North Korea, he said.

Even those North Koreans still counted loyal to the Communist cause are suffering, he said.

"They are allowed only two hops of rice a day only two-thirds as much as we give our prisoners of war," he said.

Rhee said Communist "savageries . . . have become almost commonplace stories to us."

"During the past six years, they have slaughtered many prominent leaders in the north who refused indoctrination, including Catholic priests and Protestant leader Cho Man-sik," Rhee said.

Gallery Joins Council's Hectic Night Session

Mayor Threatens Wholesale Ejections When Crowd Yells At Skillings' Foray

Citizens packed City Hall council chamber at the first of three trial night meetings Monday night. The crowd participated.

The gallery heard the most vigorous debate in council's history. And it heard momentous decisions:

1. A plebiscite on reduction of council membership from 10 to 8 was approved unanimously.

2. Moves for referendums on coloring of margarine and Sunday commercial sports and entertainment were killed by 8-2 votes.

3. A Chamber of Commerce campaign for rate parity with Vancouver on "class" freight was endorsed.

Since a plebiscite is an order of the people, asking in this case, that a by-law be confirmed, the council reduction by-law, Dec. 13, can be voted on, only by property owners.

The packed gallery got the biggest show the old council chamber has ever seen.

Sharp crack of the mayoral gavel, punctuated the night's proceedings as Mayor George Indi; cated he would let nothing upset "dignity and decorum."

There were boos and catcalls, cheers and loud clapping on one side — on the other, a warning the chamber would be cleared at one point and a threat to eject a heckler at another.

Crowds were turned away at the doors. More than 20 middle-aged men and women stood for an hour and three-quarters in the corridor, waiting for standing space around the wall of the chamber.

Officially, there is room for only 150 in the council's gallery. There were more than 250 jammed into seats and standing room.

At one stage, when Alderman Skillings demanded that the public be given an opportunity to express its opinion on the controversial margarine and Sunday sports issues, the gallery applauded. Mayor George threatened to clear the chamber.

Canada May Deport Imposter

Immigration Department officials here were awaiting instructions today regarding Ferdinand Waldo Demara, erstwhile Canadian Navy surgeon, who was due to be dishonorably discharged from the service this afternoon at H.M.C.S. Naden.

The department has opened an investigation as to how the mysterious American from Lawrence, Mass., got into Canada. If it is found he has no legal status in this country he will be deported to the United States.

They said it has been established that Demara entered Canada aboard a bus at St. Stephen, N.B., last March. He came as a tourist and made no application for permission to remain in Canada.

He has steadfastly refused to discuss his odd predicament.

He joined the navy as Dr. Joseph Cyr, aged 28, and as a surgeon-lieutenant established a fine reputation in Korean waters aboard H.M.C.S. Cayuga.

AGE UNCERTAIN

Dr. Joseph Cyr of Grand Falls, N.B., claims a man known to him as Cecil Hamann took his medical credentials last year, and that he is the man calling himself Lieut. Cyr.

Demara has also been identified as the man who posed as a Dr. French, instructor at St. Martin's College, Lacey, Wash., in 1947.

Even his age is not known. As "Cyr" he is 28; the man known as Hamann was 36. Demara refuses to throw any light whatsoever on the bizarre situation.

He went through his out-going barracks routine today, calling at medical, dental, paymaster, and other offices.

Speculation on his future action suggests a number of courses:

The navy itself has no charge against him, and Dr. Cyr, whom Demara impersonated for months, will not bring any action.

It was learned here that he had enquired in September about passage to England next year when at the same time he was a naval officer with no immediate prospect of leaving the service unless he was discovered as an imposter.

Newspapers and magazine writers have offered him respectable sums of money for his story, but his only answer to such messages was: "Sorry. No comment."

India Plane Crash Takes Lives Of 16

CALCUTTA, India, Nov. 21 (Reuters) — A Deccan Airways DC-3 plunged into fogbound jungle and burst into flames three miles from here at dawn today, killing 16 persons. The sole survivor was taken to hospital.

Nearby villagers, wakened by the explosion, said those aboard could be heard screaming for help. But would-be rescuers were driven back by flames which covered the plane from end to end.

Passengers who died in the crash included H. C. Hines, a courier of the United Kingdom High Commissioner's office in India; Lala Deshbandu Gupta, 53, president of All-India Newspaper Editors' Conference, and two other journalists of Indian papers.

Gupta was managing director of The Daily Tej and Indian News Chronicle.

U.N. Commission Fails In Arab-Israeli Dispute

PARIS, Nov. 21 (AP). — The United Nations' Palestine conciliation committee today announced its failure to settle Arab-Israeli differences.

The commission said it had called off the fruitless talks begun here August 10 because neither party showed willingness to make concessions.

The group made up of representatives of the United States, France and Turkey now is drafting a report of its failure to the general assembly. It then will be up to the assembly to decide whether the commission should be liquidated or continued in existence.

The three-man commission notified both the Israeli and Arab governments, which have been consulting with it, that wide differences between the two sides make it useless to continue negotiation efforts at this time.

The commission, originally created by the general assembly in 1948, has been making a new peace attempt in Paris since last summer. It has been unable, however, to get the two parties to sit down together because of Arab refusal to deal directly with the Israeli representatives.

Acting as a go-between, the commission had offered its own proposals to break the deadlock and had frequently met with Israeli and Arab representatives separately.

The principal stumbling block continued to be the question of repatriating thousands of Arab refugees who fled from Palestine during the 1948 fighting.

The Arabs insisted the question must be settled before any other problems were taken up. Israel contended that the refugee problem should be discussed as part of the broader general question of a peace treaty.

YOGA WORKING MIRACLE

Even Bed Losing Charm For Reporter

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The alarm clock rang this morning and before I knew it I had jumped out of bed.

Now this is a near phenomenon. I usually sleep on. I have literally had to drag myself from bed every morning for years. Then in a half-slumbering condition, I have dressed, eaten and crawled to the bus.

But this morning I was up without any effort. I realized why . . . my Yoga exercises which my kindly Hindu teacher Swami has been giving me for four days at the Sikh temple.

At breakfast table I got another surprise. My wife said I looked better; my son said I looked better; my sister said I looked better; and my dear aunt . . . well . . . she "thought" I looked better. Never have I received such a barrelful of compliments so early in the morning.

At the office, the remarks were not quite so flattering, but I must admit that I do feel better for taking the Yoga exercises which are reviving my multiple fossilized muscles.

I'm not the only one who is benefiting from the exercises. Several people who are taking the course seriously have told me the nip-ups are doing them wonders. One woman told me she can now work much better. All of them are beginning to feel wonderfully fit.

Now, Swami told me all this at the beginning of the Yoga course.

"In two or three months you will not want to stay in bed," he said. "You will want to start work two or three hours earlier than usual. You will feel sorry for those who start work at 9 o'clock."

Fancy that! Never in my life have I ever imagined myself wanting to go to the office two or three hours before I have to.

To be frank, I've been hoping that some day my employer would come down to me and say you don't have to come to work until 10 in the morning. Then, I think I'd kiss him.

SWAMI SHIVANAND
. . . hard taskmaster

Swami has also told me another strange thing. It is about smoking.

"Now, I'm a heavy smoker and for years I've been trying to give it up. I have at times, but I usually break down by having a puff behind the woodshed. Then I've had to give up pretending and start smoking in the open again.

Naturally, I thought it strange that Swami did not ask us to stop smoking. Most physical instructors do. They tell you to give up this and that, until you get so fed up with their preaching that you stay clear of them. Swami did no such thing, so I asked him about it.

He smiled. "I'm not worried about it," he said. "Nobody will tell you to stop. In three months' time you will stop on your own. You just won't want to smoke. You will detest the taste of a cigarette.

"If you should try to smoke after you have followed this course for about three months, you will feel sick. You will never want to touch a cigarette again."

Sure refreshin' t' see folks turnin' out fer a look at their council in action. Thet's democracy on th' job.

Cops are gonna lose a lotta goodwill if they start gettin' prejudiced about who goes t' their ball.

Let's not forget—it's th' stature o' th' councillors, not th' size o' th' council, thet counts.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

A friend of mine, who is a well-adjusted and mature individual, can look at a mid-November Santa Claus and never turn a hair. She can even smile at one, thinking him not at all unseasonable. In fact, she gets a certain satisfaction from seeing the old duffer out in his war paint a full five weeks before he's due in the flue.

Stott

My friend started her Christmas shopping last February and has it almost completed now.

My friend explains her forethought quite logically. She finds the Christmas-New Year season a bit upsetting. People eat too much rich food at that time. That, she believes, causes hyper-acidity, accompanied by headaches—and when they reach the state of chronic migraine, in come the Christmas bills. That is punishment.

This season she proposes to have her post-Christmas headaches in comfort—no bills, none of those economic ulcer-inducing tensions.

In the meantime, she can smile at Santa Claus. And he, uninformed chappy that he is, will probably smile right back, not understanding her cheerfulness, but grateful for an adult face in which the mouth turns up at the corners instead of down when it turns toward him.

Not Early Enough

It isn't Santa's arrival on Nov. 17 that creates anxiety and something less than a whole-heartedly cheerful greeting from adults. He's not too early. He's not nearly early enough.

Santa should have been on the job Jan. 15. Let him have the week off after Christmas. He's entitled to that for overtime, having packed his bag all over the place. Let him have the first fortnight in January, too. He's entitled to his two weeks' holiday with pay.

But let's have him back as soon as we can. Why limit the joy he can spread to a mere five weeks before Christmas? Why can't we have him all year around?

Shopping these days can be such a trial. In the words of the popular song, the high cost of living is getting folk down. Surely they're entitled to the lift they might receive from jolly old Kris Kringle, be it winter, spring, summer or autumn. Maybe it wouldn't be too comfortable for him in his long red underwear and fur-trimmed collar in the middle of August, but think of the comfort he'd give others, in lighter clothes, just by comparison.

Looking at it from the 1951 viewpoint, it seems fantastic to think that Santa Clause at one time made his appearance only on Christmas Eve and didn't hang around after he'd dropped his parcels. In those days people had much too small doses of a good thing.

But then, in that era, people had quaint ideas about Christmas. Some used to say it was for the kids. They even insisted on cards with snow scenes, sleighs and sleigh-bells, holly, red candles and pictures of St. Nick himself, when they wanted to mail greetings to friends. They apparently didn't know the smooth sophistication and elegance of a neatly embossed cardboard plaque, bearing the printed name of the sender—antiseptic and untouched by human hands.

Sentimentality

It's odd to look back on that time. Yet they were nice people, those who lived in that epoch, for all their sentimental ideas.

Still, it should be much better under a Santa-all-year-round regime. Come the time when the income tax goes up to look after the new pensions, it would be handy to have Mr. Claus to turn to. At budget time in the City Council, a lot of hard feeling could be avoided. When a request came in for an extra grant, for an extra service, the mayor and aldermen wouldn't have to decline with regrets. They'd just initial a chit to the gentleman with the whiskers.

Yep, there'd be lots of jobs for Santa Claus to do if we could stretch his five weeks' stay into 49 weeks. And his first appearance of the year wouldn't come as such a shock, chilling us to the marrow of our pocketbooks. We'd be used to him.

And in time, he'd get used to us. The day would eventually arrive when, reacting humanly to human appeals, he'd develop a defense mechanism. Asked for largesse, he'd look down his cherry red nose and reply, "Say, who do you think I am? Santa Claus?" Then we'd know we had put an end to this sentimentality of the Christmas season.

RAIDING ACTION

U.N. Forces Beat Off 2 Red Attacks

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Nov. 21 (UP)—United Nations forces seized a hill and beat off two Communist attacks in sporadic fighting along the 135-mile Korean front today.

A U.N. raiding party took a hill northwest of Chorwon on the west-central front in the only allied advance reported in the Eighth Army's evening communique.

Farther east, the South Korean 6th Division repulsed a Communist attack against its newly-won positions southeast of Kumsong.

The South Koreans had gained another 2,500 yards east of the Pukhan River Tuesday to extend their over-all advance since Saturday to five miles on a nine-mile front. The limited offensive has brought some 36 additional square miles of North Korean territory behind the Allied lines.

On the east-central front, U.N. elements northwest of Punchbowl Valley beat off a Communist attack in a 5½-hour battle which lasted until after dawn.

In one small valley, Allied scouts found 300 to 400 Chinese dead and some troops said the final total may be closer to 500.

SCURRY—In Hollywood Barbara Payton scurried into hiding today with the statement she is through with Franchot Tone forever—just as soon as he "pays a few bills" here and there.

Through her attorney the blonde starlet announced she wasn't in such a hurry to file for divorce now that her bridegroom of 53 days has beaten her to the punch.

Tone, wealthy, cultured and angry, got his complaint in the court records Tuesday morning, a few hours after he and Barbara battled and she stomped out of their hillside love-nest.

CRISIS—In Kinmount, Ont., Dudley Stumm, 24, was rescued Tuesday from what he thought was his "last sleep."

A search party found him collapsed on a knoll in central Ontario's Haliburton swamp-and-bush country. He had been missing without food or matches in freezing weather, for five nights and days.

Wallace Scott, game overseer and search leader, said Stumm "told us he was just about asleep—a sleep he figured was his last—when we came along."

LAYING—In Hollywood Virginia MacPherson writes that Alan Ladd is the only actor in town who doesn't cringe when somebody accuses him of "laying an egg." That's money in the bank for him.

And we're not talking about movies, either. Ladd is in the egg-raising business. In a big way.

He's got a coupla thousand hens on his 25-acre ranch in Hidden Valley, just outside Beverly Hills. And when it comes to making them put out this Ladd is a real slave driver.

The Gales were asked by physicians at the Children's Hospital whether they were willing to authorize the use of a drug that might prolong the life of little Rodney Gale two or three months.

"We thought about it for a long time," said Mrs. Gale, 29. "And then we decided against it. It would only prolong Rodney's misery—and he's miserable enough now."

SIZZLED — In Albuquerque, N.M., a bright green fireball sizzled across southwestern skies Tuesday night, displaying "all the characteristics" of eight other flaming objects that have puzzled meteorologists and residents of four states during the past three weeks.

Dr. Lincoln La Paz, head of the New Mexico University Institute of Meteoritics, said the latest fireball was sighted about 5.42 p.m. (P.S.T.).

Pilots of two air force planes and a transworld airliner pilot first reported the latest phenomenon. But the meteorologist said a later check revealed the object had been sighted from points as distant as Dodge City, Kan., and Lubbock and Big Springs, Tex.

CONFESSION—In Manila, P.I., fourteen-year-old Rodolfo Reyes told Manila police today he clubbed one of his sisters to death and injured another because they refused him 35 cents for the movies.

He killed Carolina, 28. Crescenciana, 26, was in a serious condition in a local hospital.

DENIAL—In Hollywood millionaire movie executive Noah Dietrich, 62, sought either an annulment or a divorce today from his 48-year-old wife and denied her charges that he had a love affair with film actress Janis Carter.

Dietrich filed suit in nearby Santa Monica Tuesday as a counter move to a separate maintenance suit brought by his wife, Carol, last week in which she accused him of having intimacies with the pretty blonde actress.

EXPLOITATION — In Bonn, Germany, six touring members of the U.S. House of Representatives foreign affairs committee have protested to 20th Century Fox plans to show in Germany the "Desert Fox," about the late Field Marshall Edwin Rommel.

The congressmen cabled 20th Century Fox Tuesday recommending the picture be not shown because Communists and Neo-Nazis in Germany would exploit if for their own purposes.

The cable pointed out that the state department and the U.S. high commission for Germany have suggested the picture not be shown in Germany.

SALTY—In Uvalde, Tex., John Nance Garner, still as salty a character as when he was vice-president, will be 83 years old tomorrow. His main ambition is to live nine more years, to the age of 92. "Then I can say I spent half my life as a private citizen," said "Cactus Jack."

Garner

Garner spent 46 years in public office. Of these, 39 were spent in Washington—from 1902 when he first went to Congress until 1941 when he finished his second term as vice-president and split with Franklin Delano Roosevelt over the third term issue.

PROFIT—In Chicago a 30-year-old steel broker says that in five years he ran an original investment of $1,300 of his own money into a business netting him currently an estimated $280,000 a year before taxes.

Seymour Waldman told a senate subcommittee investigating a steel grey market, Tuesday, that he expected his sales to gross about $7,000,000 in 1951.

DESPONDENT—In Santa Barbara despondency over the loss of her fortune was blamed today for the suicide of society matron Mrs. Hilda Weber, 65, who killed herself in the bathroom of her small rented bungalow.

Mrs. Weber, who inherited a $10,000,000 fortune from a former husband, was found dead in the water-filled bathtub of her home Tuesday night by her present husband, Joseph Otto Weber.

Looting, Racketeering Follow Italian Floods

200,000 Homeless; Po Still Rising

ROME, Nov. 21 (Reuters) — Rigorous security measures were taken today by northern Italian authorities harassed by the growth of plundering and racketeering in areas flooded by the Po River.

Strong armed patrols have been sent to the flood-bound area. Anyone found prowling around the abandoned homes of 200,000 flood victims risked being shot.

Meanwhile, 30,000 rescuers worked feverishly in the grim knowledge that the mighty Po is threatening fresh disaster down its 375-mile course from the French Alps to the Adriatic. Already at least 100 persons have lost their lives.

In the northwest, three days of heavy rain have raised the Po almost 10 feet. Lakes Lugano and Maggiore, on the Swiss-Italian border, rose ominously. Scores of small rivers burst their banks.

The evacuation of Adria, almost completely under water, continued all night under the glare of powerful floodlights. At least 10,000 of the town's 35,000 residents were believed still marooned there.

With many families clinging obstinately to their homes, it is impossible to assess accurately the number of deaths. Some estimates run into the thousands.

Rescue teams — including British and United States soldiers from Trieste—have had to drag some people away from their possessions.

In Rovigo Province, now four-fifths under water, one small boy was found clinging to a tree, almost dead with cold after three days. Unable to unclench his frozen hands, rescuers had to cut the whole branch away to move him.

New B.C. Group Voice Of Province Business

Associated Trade Boards' Successor Expected To Wield Large Influence

By HARRY YOUNG
Times Business Editor

In Vancouver this week the old Associated Boards of Trade of B.C. will be disbanded. In its place will arise the B.C. Chamber of Commerce, a new organization carrying the blessing of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The new group will give British Columbia business a new and powerful voice at the provincial level.

Approval of the formation of the new Chamber has been indicated by 138 groups, and most of them are expected to be represented at the charter meeting Friday and Saturday in the Hotel Vancouver.

Victoria, which next to Vancouver forms the biggest chamber in the province, will be represented by its president, Ernest Arnott, and directors Fred Hawes, Stuart Keate, H. C. Holmes, Walter S. Miles, and secretary, G. I. Warren. It is expected that when the new officials are elected Victorians will fill at least one of the most important posts.

The objects of the provincial body are: to federate the boards of trade and chambers of commerce into a closer provincial relationship to attain united action on common interests; to develop and present informed views and opinions of business and the community to the provincial legislature; to maintain and extend a vigorous chamber of commerce movement; and to promote the economic, civic and social welfare of British Columbia and Canada.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, whose former president Francis Winspear suggested that such a provincial body should be formed, will bear much of the expense of the new group. It will provide office headquarters in Vancouver, and will also lend its own officials to do much of the administrative work.

Disappearing River Still Provides Prairie Power

BANFF, Alta., Nov. 2 (CP)—This river keeps moving around and then just disappears.

Sometimes it looks as if it has dried up completely. Yet the Calgary Power Company manages to get 8,000,000,000 gallons of water from it every year to be used when its regular source, the Bow River, runs low.

The mysterious Ghost River has its headwaters in the "Devil-Devil" country of the Canadian Rockies. The water from the top 20 miles is diverted into Lake Minnewanka for replenishing low periods in the Bow.

Yet a few miles below the diversion point, the Ghost is running as strongly as ever.

Scientists say the reason the Ghost River keeps appearing and disappearing is the gravel it flows through. At times the water flows underground through the gravel. Then, when the water table rises, the river re-appears.

The gravel beds, several hundred yards wide, give the river lots of room to choose its course.

For added atmosphere the Ghost does its disappearing act in a district famed for Devil's Head mountain, a 9,174-foot peak; Devil's Fang, another jagged peak, and the Devil's Gap, which leads to the storage lake.

Indian legends claim that a large rock balanced atop Devil's Head mountain assured Indian supremacy as long as it balanced. But when it crashed to the ground, the Indians' supremacy would be gone. And tribal lore has it that the rock fell just before the first white man came to this territory.

Between The Allies

THE PRESENT DEBATE IN THE United Nations Assembly seems to be conducted between the western democracies and Russia. In fact the real debate is within the western democracies themselves. And on it the future of the North Atlantic alliance and the safety of the free world hangs.

It can be seen now that, in proposing a clear-cut disarmament plan, the United States has two purposes. First it was seeking to seize from Russia the initiative in the cold war, to prove to the neutral peoples throughout the world that the United States desired peace and disarmament as much as anyone. The second purpose was even clearer and more immediate—to convince the United States' allies of its intentions.

This is essential since in Britain and western Europe there has lately grown up the feeling that the United States is suffering from the familiar effects of huge armaments, that, growing impatient with an uneasy peace, it is tempted to end the problem by using its armaments in an early war, that its power is getting the better of its judgment. There is a fear, not widespread, perhaps, but growing, that the United States' policy may lead to war and not to peace.

The first task of American statesmanship, therefore, is to convince all the allies that the United States is building strength not for war but to prevent war. It is necessary to prove that the United States is sincere in Mr. Acheson's doctrine of negotiating "from strength" and is ready to negotiate with Russia as soon as Russia will negotiate on a reasonable basis.

Mr. Acheson's speeches at Paris all are designed to this end. Their effect on opinion in Britain and Europe remains to be seen. Meanwhile the problem which Mr. Acheson had in mind when he went to Paris has deepened rapidly. Already strained, the economies of the European nations are threatened by the still more serious strains imposed by the cost of armament.

It cannot be argued, of course, that Europe would now be comfortably situated if it did not have to arm. The balance of payments crisis had not been solved before rearmament began, though it was sometimes disguised by the temporary fluctuations of imports and exports. Still, it is now evident that the problem will be worsened when more of Europe's energies are diverted from the production of goods which can be used, into weapons which, economically speaking, are a dead loss.

The immediate question, therefore, is how much rearmament Europe can afford without such a reduction of living standards as might destroy its existing government and establish governments of a Bevanite complexion which would revise the disarmament program downward and even destroy it altogether. In short, how far and how quickly can Europe go in armament without a political and economic collapse?

This is the question which the newly-formed central committee of the North Atlantic alliance will shortly consider in Rome. The committee will try to reshape the whole rearmament plan to fit the abilities of the allies to support it.

While the outcome of these deliberations cannot be foreseen in detail at the moment one thing is already certain—if Europe is to proceed with rearmament at the pace desired by the United States then the United States must be prepared to help it by larger measures of aid than those now proposed. Large and generous as it is, the United States' foreign aid budget will have to be expanded. This apparently is accepted in Washington as an inescapable fact. The only question now is what form the revised budget should take.

Europe feels that it is securing enough purely military aid from the United States. It seeks more economic aid which will enable it to carry its share of military preparation. One of the most hopeful proposals now under consideration is that the United States should pay Europe for the manufacture of a larger part of the armaments which Europe requires. Instead of shipping all the necessary weapons to Europe, the United States would give Europe dollars for more weapons made in Europe. It would hire the European armament factories and the hire, in the form of American dollars, would enable Europe to buy in the United States more goods for its consumers.

Whatever technique is used, there will have to be some method of preventing Europe's descent into an intolerable poverty. Canada as one of the two rich partners of the alliance, cannot escape its responsibilities in this general effort. If the United States is to strain itself further to aid its allies Canada will be required to give similiar assistance, within its means.

Study, Decide And Vote

IN LESS THAN A MONTH VOTERS of Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt will go to the polls to decide whom they wish to serve them as chief magistrates, aldermen, councillors, school trustees and police commissioners next year. Already campaigning for the different offices has begun.

During the next few weeks opportunity should be given to all voters to familiarize themselves with the platforms and records of those soliciting their support. It is the responsibility of democratic citizens to take time to inform themselves on questions that are raised and to weigh the calibre of the individuals seeking office. Only through such action can the citizens form intelligent choices when they enter the polling booths.

Rudimentary as that thesis is, it seems to have made little impression on the majority of municipal voters during recent years. Almost invariably less than half those entitled to exercise the franchise bother to mark ballots. Yet the men or women they elect are the people entrusted with business which is the direct concern of the entire population.

In Victoria this year a contest between strong candidates for the mayoralty may provoke interest greater than is customary. It is to be hoped such will be the case. And it is to be hoped that the heightened interest will lead to a larger poll. In that way, and in that way only, do citizens justify the democratic principles to which we, as a people give lip service.

A simple duty rests upon each citizen qualified to vote. He or she should be informed on the points for which candidates stand. He or she should determine for himself or herself who will best serve the community. And he or she should vote intelligently on polling day.

No Excuse For Delay

NO ONE WILL GRUDGE ATTORNEY-General Wismer his well-earned holiday upon the high seas. But if Mr. Wismer is to be absent from the government for the next six weeks this will not justify any postponement of the liquor issue raised by the United States government.

It has asked Mr. Wismer to end the government's long-standing discrimination against American wine imports, a policy which defies Canada's trade treaty with its neighbor and may well produce grave retaliation in American tariffs. Mr. Wismer replies that he will give the matter consideration.

It is high time that he did. This matter was brought into the legislature nearly a year ago and Mr. Wismer considered it then but brushed it aside as unimportant, as a mere trifle dreamed up in this newspaper. He is still considering, now that the United States has entered its protest.

The government should not wait until Mr. Wismer's return to make up its mind. This is not some minor regulation under Mr. Wismer's control. It is the high policy of the government as a whole and the government is responsible for it. Mr. Wismer's advice assuredly should be weighed in the cabinet but the cabinet must make the decision and the decision should be made without further delay.

Nothing said on this question here reflects upon that excellent public servant, Colonel McGugan, chairman of the liquor board. He, of course, merely carries out government policy, good or bad.

Anonymous Letters

A GOOD MANY PEOPLE WHO HAVE written letters to the Times probably wonder why they are not printed. Some are not printed because they are anonymous. Correspondents do not have to sign their names for publication but this newspaper will not publish any letter without being informed of the name of the writer.

This rule is well known and is enforced by most publications but some people still try to evade it. Every day the post brings into this office anonymous letters, most of them abusive, some of them libelous and many accusing us of cowardice on one issue or another though the writers do not even dare to sign their own names to the accusation.

We welcome controversial letters. We think that newspapers, like any other institution, thrive on criticism and correction. But those who offer it need not complain if their letters, unsigned, are not printed.

Back From Alice In Wonderland

THE PUBLIC HAS NOTED WITH SURprise the Alice-in-Wonderland touch of the B.C. Milk Board's recent ruling taking a dairyman to court for selling milk with too high a butterfat content. The decision of Judge Harry Sullivan, sustaining the dairyman's appeal and quashing conviction, restores some vestige of sanity to the matter.

Judge Sullivan did not reach his decision on the particular point of too-rich milk, but he expressed the opinion that the milk board's assumption of power to prosecute under such circumstances was unconstitutional.

Certainly the public should be protected from inferior milk. But by what course of reasoning should a purchaser be legally deprived of a superior commodity?

It is an accepted idiom that the world will beat a path to the door of the man who makes a better mousetrap. Judge Sullivan appears to have added the rider that the authorities, through the milk board, have no right to set a mousetrap for the man who aspires to that achievement.

LOOSE ENDS

The Great Canadian Joke

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Hutchison

TO GRASP THE READER'S INTEREST by the first paragraph there are many well-tried methods. The most reliable is to make clear, at the start, that the writer intends to say something silly.

This is very difficult. To be silly for a thousand words or so of print is indeed one of the most exhausting feats known to athletics. It requires more physical energy than hitting a home run or scoring a touch-down but the pay is not so good.

On the other hand, it is easy to be sensible. Anybody in good health can do it without strain. But if the first paragraph shows the writer intends to be sensible he will lose most of his readers before the second. And at this moment of history the infallible method of throwing readers off is to mention inflation.

I AM CONVINCED, after a careful study, that if the word "inflation" appears in the first line of any column of type the rest of that column might just as well be chucked out and the cost of printing and newsprint saved. Because inflation is probably the supreme political problem before the Canadian nation, because it is urgent, serious and not silly the public is tired of hearing about it.

The government of Canada, bless its innocent little heart, imagines that it has instructed the public in the simple facts of inflation, which any seven-year-old boy should be able to grasp. In fact, for all the speeches of Mr. St. Laurent, all the figures of Mr. Abbott and all the crisp sentences of Mr. Towers, the public obviously doesn't understand inflation and doesn't want to.

STILL, DON'T BLAME the public too much. It has heard so much nonsense about inflation from high places, it has been so misinformed by many newspapers, it has been so confused by gibberish in Parliament and so deafened by noises on the radio that it seems to have abandoned the whole thing as hopelessly complex and unintelligible, like Relativity or atomic fission.

Now in the unlikely chance that one reader has followed thus far after encountering the hateful word let me assure this lonely man that inflation will not be discussed here. Like the public, I have given up inflation as a bad job. As an amateur of inflation, after two years spent mostly in its study, after months of argument with experts, after being closeted for weeks on end with economists, after writing many thousands of words and losing any readers I may have had, I have resigned from this hobby. I am now collecting butterflies and some of my friends have begun to speak to me again. But they still eye me warily, fearing that I may have a relapse and mention the obscene old subject. They fear that I cannot remain silly all the time.

NO, I WILL NOT write about inflation but I would like to protest, humbly and good-naturedly, against those who do. I don't mind them writing about inflation if they write about inflation. The trouble is that most of them, while imagining they do so, write about something else entirely.

Most of them write about high prices, which are not inflation at all, are merely the end result and outward symptom of inflation. Nearly all of them write gravely, believing they are being sensible when they are achieving consciously a divine silliness, a glorious humor, a kind of jest which, in their conscious moments, they could never hope to reach.

THIS WOULD supply the nation with an innocent pleasure, it would ornament Canadian letters, it would even begin to give us a Canadian literature of humor as good as Mr. Leacock's if the public understood the joke. Unfortunately the joke is only understood by the economists and they cannot explain it to anyone else.

Mr. Towers, I have no doubt, is convulsed with laughter to the point of physical damage and all his staff in the Bank of Canada enjoy an hour of secret hysterics every morning within their stone mausoleum, but they must keep a straight face on the street. I do not grudge Mr. Towers and the others their harmless joke but I wish they could share it with the public in these unhappy times. Alas, they cannot, for they speak a language which the public cannot understand and refuses to learn.

THERE IS no end of laughter for the experts. Even from 3,000 miles away I can hear the wild guffaws from Mr. Abbott's office as he picks up The Vancouver Sun and reads that the government must cure inflation, increase the rate of old-age pensions, and hand over vast extra sums to the provinces so that it may be spent to add to the public purchasing power. I can picture the more restrained mirth of the Prime Minister when he hears The Vancouver Province, in an ecstasy of alarm about inflation, denounce the government for raising interest rates which are the surest weapon of deflation. I can see the boys in the East Block dancing with merriment behind the green baize doors when they pick up Hansard and observe the Conservative party demanding deflation and condemning the government for doing it.

IF THE PUBLIC could only realize it inflation is the largest joke we have ever known in this country. It quite out-Stephens Leacock. After a hard night it is a better stimulant than the old Calgary Eye Opener. Alas, when the newspapers and the statesmen are funnier than ever they appear to be most sensible and hence nobody will listen to them. I have learned my lesson. I am collecting butterflies. Still I have my private joke. I am compiling a scrap book of speeches and editorials for my grandchildren. They will need a laugh by that time when they have to pay the bills of our grim and deadly earnest nonsense.

Time To Restore A Wartime Symbol

Mr. Brown Replies

WITH GALLANT URBANITY, BRUCE Hutchison in Monday night's Times accuses me of imposing a campaign of blackmail against the central government of Canada when, as a citizen of British Columbia, I write to demand a better deal under the provincial-dominion taxation agreements. I take no offense. In fact, if this is indeed blackmail, I say let's have some more of it.

Mr. Hutchison says that the Coalition government of British Columbia is in some current trouble; and he suggests that I, a friend and supporter of Coalition for 10 years now, have developed a deep, dark plan to divert the public mind from purely local issues—so I open a blackmailing drive to get more money out of Ottawa.

I am willing to plead guilty to a bit of polite blackmail, but for Mr. H. to say it's a diversionary plot is to extol a shrewdness I do not possess. So let us to the facts; let the blackmailing stand on its own feet, as it were.

He suggests that I am inventing a line of argument, sort of, and egging on Mr. Johnson and Mr. Anscomb in doubtful claim and extravagant argument against Ottawa that otherwise they would not have thought of. My mind goes back to the legislature when British Columbia Minister of Finance, Mr. Anscomb, was making his budget speech. It was he who on that occasion showed, pretty conclusively, I thought, that British Columbia was entitled to more than $40 millions a year, instead of a figure less than $30 millions then paid by Ottawa as rental for our tax contributions to the nation's welfare. Delivered by the responsible minister, that claim became the official position of the government for which he was speaking—in other words, it assumed the importance of a declaration of government policy.

In my mind, I applauded this declaration. Years before, I had attended, in Ottawa, several of a series of original conferences at which the agreements were framed. I realized then and there that the provinces had to fight for their "rights," as Mr. Hutchison flippantly calls them, every step of the way.

The lads at Ottawa were very bright on that occasion. They first settled what they would offer to the "have-not" provinces — the Maritimes, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, etc. British Columbia, as a comparatively wealthy province, was the first to admit the principle that the "haves" should share the wealth with the "have-nots." The situation was this—that provinces like New Brunswick and Saskatchewan were glad to get any assured handout; it was certain from the beginning they would accept what the federal government offered. And I mean, no matter what.

Then British Columbia took a hand. The original offer was not good enough. Mr. Anscomb pointed out what was wrong with it and Mr. Hart pressed the matter home. Will Mr. Hutchison suggest we got more than we should have received when the federals finally agreed and adopted the Hart formula for future participation in the industrial revenues of the country as a whole?

The British Columbia delegates won something for themselves and comparatively the same amounts for five or six have-not provinces. I don't recall anyone charging blackmail in settling this better deal. Is it not fair that Mr. Anscomb, impelled by the same arguments in 1951, as applied in 1944, should seek to put his best foot forward? I think he is entitled to a public vote of thanks and confidence that he is keeping our end of this transaction in the forefront. I don't see any blackmail in that.

Just one more point. Since I began my little blackmail game, if we consider it at that level, something like a transformation has come over Ottawa. As I recall, we started with a minimum guarantee of $18 million a year. This has expanded by reason of larger population and greater earning power per unit of population, so that, bless you, we are now up in the thirties. A minimum guarantee, as I understand it, from Ottawa, of $32 million and a proposed actual payment for 1952 of $37 million plus.

Merely by speaking of $40 millions, Mr. Anscomb seems to have induced the federals to boost the ante—pretty close to an acceptable figure, I would say. It will be claimed that this new amount of $37 millions was included in Ottawa's good intention all the time and that we would have got it without Mr. Anscomb saying a word. That, I do not believe for a moment.

In fact, I think you have got to look after yourself when dealing with Ottawa. I still deny I invented the cry of revival of provincial rights for the sake of taking the minds of British Columbians off hospital insurance. As to the charge Mr. Hutchison makes at the top of his interesting column—well, a little of that what-you-may-call-'em, now and then, will do no harm at all. Almost anything that boosts $20-odd millions to $37,257,000 cash down, and leaves us still good friends with Ottawa, is justified by the results.

Royal Keepsake

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

What might well be regarded as the last act of homage to the memory of a great champion was the presentation to Their Royal Highnesses, for their little son, Prince Charles, of a model of the lost schooner Bluenose.

It is a graceful gesture which may, in some measure, redeem the past and make us all feel a little more comfortable in our minds and memories. For we of Nova Scotia have a lot to answer for in relation to Bluenose and her last days. As, indeed, have all Canadians. What we as Canadians permitted to happen to Bluenose is not something to justify much national boasting.

She should have been preserved here in Canada, for her own sake and as a permanent reminder of an era of sail that has passed into history with the yards and spars of the clippers of another day.

"Give thanks to the Lord." Luke 2:38.

We link Thanksgiving with Plymouth Rock . . . But Paul thanked God at Antioch . . . While David sang his thankful chord . . . And Anna "gave thanks unto the Lord" . . . We find the chief thanksgiver of all . . . Was Job, who under affliction's pall . . . Could find much to be thankful for . . . So why can't we, in spite of war . . . Uncertain future and world privation . . . for all we have be a grateful nation?

LOGGERS' THANKS

During the 42nd annual session of this organization recently assembled in Victoria, the members adopted a resolution instructing me, in behalf of the entire membership, to express to you our sincere appreciation for the hospitality and generosity which keynoted our visit to your beautiful city.

The courtesy and co-operation so warmly accorded us by the people of Victoria, townspeople, tradesmen and public officials alike was of material value in helping us to complete an enjoyable and worthwhile session.

The excellent coverage given us by your press is also greatly appreciated, and we trust will do much towards a better understanding of the mutual problems faced by the timber-using industries of our two great nations.

POLITICS AND LIQUOR

Your editorial for Nov. 14 re the Conservative split was very interesting reading indeed. What you say, I believe all readers agree, but why in the heck do you always let Anscomb off so easily when I know that the public in general do not believe you should?

Why Oak Bay keeps on returning him to Parliament is one of those things that is hard to understand. It's often said that Anscomb could never get to first base anywhere else in B.C., also I'll predict that Oak Bay won't return him next time. Why? Simply because he is steeped in the liquor business.

Also he being a partner to impose restrictions so that his liquor business is protected from competition by strict government policy, and when a cabinet minister will do this so open and brazen, how in the heck has he got away with it for so long a time I'll never know.

CYCLE COMPLETED

Wm. Knox D'Arcy, an Australian, first discovered oil in Persia "Iran" prior to 1901. D'Arcy lost his own personal fortune trying to develop it. Shortly afterwards he received a contract to build a railroad for the then Shah of Persia, who besides paying him well for that project, gave D'Arcy a concession of over 500,000 square miles of the country to drill, produce and pipe any oil discovered in the area.

Dating from 1901 the concession was for 60 years. Some time after D'Arcy brought in a well north of Shustar. Foreign interests then made him many tempting offers but D'Arcy wanted only British capital invested in the oil field.

The British government at that time was so shortsighted that it took D'Arcy some years to interest them in the project. In 1909 D'Arcy formed a company to exploit the field. A few years later, convinced that Britain needed her own oil supplies for defense purposes, D'Arcy approached Admiral Sir John, later Lord, Fisher who was interested.

Sir John took the issue up with the then first lord of the admiralty. The man holding the position at the time was none other than the present Prime Minister of Britain, Winston Churchill.

The British government of that day unwillingly, but under strong advocacy of Churchill entered into a contract with D'Arcy's company, investing £2,000,000 in it. This happened in July 1914 only two weeks before the outbreak of the First World War.

It seems more than a coincidence that Winston Churchill who was almost responsible for the British government acquiring the oil interests should now have the job of finding a solution for that most difficult problem.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"EVER since," said the Elevator Man, "we started out with the first 10 Commandments we've been adding to our laws and regulations. It's got to a point now where there's hardly any part of your life that isn't covered by an order of some kind, and we keep adding to them every day. Somebody once checked up on the current laws and all the ancient ones that haven't been repealed and decided that not one of us would have escaped jail if they were all enforced. That makes us all criminals in part, if not at heart. But I don't think anybody's going to worry much about it. The little laws we break in all innocence are trifling compared with the big laws we break in all guilt. We can be kept busy enough just worrying about the big ones. Going up!

Tobin

"But it is a fact," said the Elevator Man, "that much of our daily conduct of affairs is based on the fact that we don't enforce many of our laws, or at least only partially carry them out. Every now and then, for instance, you read where the French customs service has staged a protest by scrupulously carrying out every one of its instructions. They examine luggage so minutely, for example, that it takes hours to get the passengers cleared. The normal traffic can only be handled if they do their job in as quick a manner as possible. I see where the police of Yonkers, N.Y., are peeved because their application for a raise was voted down by the citizens. Now they're enforcing all the traffic rules to the last letter, and most of the town has got a ticket for one thing or another. The truth seems to be that we have to ignore or skimp on some of the laws or we'd never get anything done. That's not an argument for law-breaking. It's an argument against too many laws. Going down!

"Matter of fact," said the Elevator Man, "some of the laws actually seem to work against the public's interest. There are laws against selling loaves of bread that are larger than other people's loaves, as that Chicago baker found out. There are laws against selling milk that is richer than the next dairy's, for the same price. Unions have laws against doing a little extra work for the company if it means unpaid time. I guess it all comes from our consciences. We know that this is a pretty fine old world. We suspect that it's too good for us. So we try to make it a little tougher by imposing a few restrictions. Well, we brought it on ourselves."

FARMERS COULD HAVE 5-DAY WEEK SAYS EX-LABOR LEADER

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (BUP).—Former union leader Clarence Gillis (C.C.F.-Cape Breton South) said Tuesday night that farmers could have a five-day week if they only organized their work schedules.

Industrial workers, he said, put in 2,000 hours a year, working on a five-day week, and added he was doubtful that farmers averaged more than that on a year-around basis.

He said that if farmers organized their schedules, they would not have to work every day.

Urgent French Appeal For Aid

Asks U.S. For Immediate U.S. Dollar Help To Maintain Defense Production

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—An urgent request from France for fast United States dollar assistance today heightened the possibility that the administration may ask Congress early next year for a special foreign-aid appropriation.

Britain is in about the same economic plight as France. In fact, almost all America's European allies were described by authorities as requiring help to maintain defense production and scheduled contribution to General Dwight D. Eisenhower's European army.

Officials told reporters that within the next few days the U.S. will probably make a final decision on how much direct help the French need. Estimates range from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000.

WOULD CUT IMPORTS

France has told the U.S., according to informed sources who may not be named, that it will have to cut imports and reduce its defense operations unless special help is forthcoming promptly.

Congress this fall voted a mutual security appropriation totaling $7,328,000,000. While the great bulk of that was for the purchase of military equipment for America's allies, $1,022,000,000 was earmarked for economic aid — primarily for western Europe.

This was almost $700,000,000 less than the administration had asked.

Several weeks ago, mutual-security officials made tentative allocations of $950,000,000 in military aid fund for 13 countries considered eligible and in need.

Also tentatively, officials had decided that $580,000,000 which they could divert from military to economic assistance purposes should be held in reserve until a survey of the whole North Atlantic defense effort now underway in Paris is completed.

None of the allocations made to date help Britain. Although Britain's declining economic health is a cause of concern here as in London, the extent of Britain's needs is reported to be still unknown in Washington.

The French crisis was described as the first to present itself clearly and specifically. The only question still to be determined apparently is not whether the French will get U.S. aid, but how much and where it will come from.

What the French seek, it was said, is assurance that their total dollar income, including funds from U.S. troops and military spending in France, will amount to between $400,000,000 and $600,000,000 a year.

Charge Packers Fail To Pass On Low Pork Prices

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (BUP)—The nation's packers came under heavy C.C.F. fire Tuesday night with the party calling for the nationalization of the meat industry after accusing it of overcharging the public.

On the floor of the House of Commons and in a nation-wide broadcast, C.C.F. speakers charged that the packers had failed to pass on low pork prices to the people.

William Bryce (C.C.F.—Selkirk, Man.), said on the nation's business broadcast that the price which farmers got for pork dropped 25 per cent between mid-July and mid-September, but no reductions were effected on the retail level.

P. E. Wright (C.C.F.—Melfort, Sask), made the same charge in parliament.

Bryce said that while packers bought meat from farmers in 12 different beef grades and 10 pork grades, there were "only red, blue and commercial" standards when they reached retailers. "Does one of the common cows become a choice heifer by passing through the packing plant?" he asked.

A million Canadians now have jobs in manufacturing. Ten per cent of these are in the primary textile industry. [The latest Dominion Bureau figures are 1,080,000 in manufacturing and 104,000 of these in primary textiles.]

Besides leading all other Canadian industries in numbers employed in manufacturing, primary textiles also is away ahead in the size of its payroll. It is up among the leaders in providing jobs for women and in being well spread out through the smaller communities.

Dominion Textile is a considerable part of this basic textile industry.

Council Fights On Referendum

Margarine And Sunday Sports Votes Held Illegal Over Skillings' Protest

Victoria will have no referendum on Sunday commercial sports and entertainment at the Dec. 13 civic election. Nor will there be a vote on margarine coloring despite a council fight for it.

By a vote of 8 to 2, City Council Tuesday night agreed to accept dictum of Solicitor Arthur Patton, that such a referendum would be illegal under the Municipal Act.

By the same token, there will be no referendum on coloring of margarine.

Council received a petition from Junior Chamber of Commerce signed by 2,500 asking for a Sunday sports and entertainment referendum. Mayor Percy George said the petition, as well as any representations on margarine, should go to the provincial government, which has the authority the city lacks.

Ald. Waldo Skillings and Ald. Robert Macmillan disagreed with resulting verbal fireworks.

Skillings said, despite Patton's advice, many contended a plebiscite is the "right of any municipality, at any time, on any issue."

"Whether we have a legal right or not, we have a moral one," he said. "Let's take the public more into our confidence. Let them give an opinion on reduction of council, Sunday sports and coloring of margarine."

At this point prolonged clapping and cries of "hear, hear," were interrupted by the mayoral gavel.

"I'll clear the council chamber if you repeat that," Mayor Percy George warned the gallery.

Skillings referred to plebiscites in the past on chlorination and daylight saving. The mayor said they came within the city's jurisdiction. At one point the mayor ordered the alderman to sit down.

"I don't like this job I've got," he said. "Let's be dignified. The mayor's job is to guide aldermen along lines of the Municipal Act."

"We can be very technical, can hide behind legal advice or the Municipal Act, but it's a good democratic practice to get an expression from the people," said Skillings.

Snapped the mayor: "I don't think I need any alderman to tell me about democratic practice."

Earlier Ald. Skillings referred to coloring of margarine. He said the attorney-general had indicated the city need not fear a charge being laid by the government. Only charge of illegality could come from an "irate taxpayer," he said.

Skilling said he would meet his share of any resultant bill.

Asked what cost might be to each alderman in event of legal proceedings the solicitor said: "It would be cost of lawsuit and referendum—the cost of a lawsuit is like a horse's head. There are all sizes."

Council rescinded its motion of two weeks ago calling for the margarine coloring referendum. Skillings was the sole dissenter. Patton advised the issue was outside the city's jurisdiction by a ruling of the Supreme Court.

City Backs Parity Plan On Freight

Plea of Victoria Chamber of Commerce for rate parity with Vancouver in "class" freight, won endorsation of City Council Tuesday night.

A brief on the subject was referred to finance committee. Ald. Waldo Skillings asked if council should offer financial support.

Mayor Percy George said it was not necessary at this time. He added the attorney-general's department had someone in Ottawa pleading the case on freight rates.

"It is of such vital interest to businessmen I don't think the chamber will have any difficulty in getting financial backing," said Ald. Aubrey Kent.

Council by a 7 to 3 vote, refused Robert A. Price permission to speak for Island U-Drive Ltd. regarding a Blanshard Street taxi stand, awarded another company.

NOT UNANIMOUS

"We're beating a dead horse," said Ald. Waldo Skillings. "The motion to allow him to speak must be unanimous and I said I was opposed."

He contended the matter had been before his transportation committee three times and no new arguments had been advanced.

Council agreed to grant a 24-hour permit, subject to approval of the solicitor, to B.A. Oil Co. Ltd. for a new service station at the northwest corner of Douglas and Herald Street.

Ald. Millard Mooney and Ald. Robert Macmillan were opposed. The former contended the by-law stated such a permit could not be granted until a station had been in operation six months.

City engineer reported he saw no reason for not granting the permit. Ald. Aubrey Kent said the by-law allowed 10 such 24-hour stations, and only seven were in operation.

Cuthbert Holmes, chairman of Town Planning Commission was named city representative to a meeting of Capital Regional Planning Board, Nov. 27 at 8 in City Hall.

Jehovah's Witnesses Assembly Committee thanked council for its action in permitting a parade and street banner, in connection with the group's recent parley here.

VET HOME BUILDING COURSE

A house-building course sponsored by the Greater Victoria School Board, the Provincial Department of Education and the Department of Veterans' Affairs opened at Mount View High School Tuesday night. Thirty-eight students, mostly veterans, are taking the course which includes the building of the side of a house right in the classroom.

One-Man Union Ruled Illegal

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP)—The B.C. Labor Relations Board Tuesday failed in an appeal to uphold its right to certify a one-man union.

The court of appeal dismissed the board's appeal against the judgment of Chief Justice Wendell B. Farris, quashing the board's order of July 10 when it certified the B.C. Projectionists Union Local 348 as bargaining agent for a single employee of the General Theatre Supply Co.

Chief Justice Farris found the board had acted without jurisdiction. The company contended the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act was intended for a group of employees and not for a single employee.

Second Air Cadet Squadron Proposed

F.O. Walter Eaton, commanding officer of the 89th Kinsmen Air Cadet Squadron, Victoria, proposed the formation here of a second air cadet squadron at a meeting Tuesday of the North Victoria Kiwanis Club.

F.O. Eaton said there was no reason why Victoria should be limited to one squadron.

"Many boys want to take advantage of air cadet training," he said. "Another squadron consisting of 125 members could be formed here."

Britain Said Ready To Accept U.S. Admiral For Atlantic Ships

ROME, Nov. 21, (AP).—Britain today was reported to agree to the appointment of an American admiral to command the West's naval forces in the Atlantic.

A qualified informant said British concurrence was made possible by agreement of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military committee, meeting here, on the exact responsibilities of the Atlantic naval commander, and also on the establishment of new English channel commander under a British admiral.

The Atlantic naval commander will operate under sharply-defined powers, the informant said, indicating that Britain will retain certain powers she considers vital.

Presumably these would include control of the western sea approaches to the British Isles.

The British previously had blocked appointment of an American to the post.

The new English Channel command will be under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters and will direct western defense in the channel and the southern part of the North Sea.

Though the military group has authority only to recommend, the N.A.T.O. council was expected to approve quickly its recommendations on the commands during its session which opens here Saturday.

Meanwhile, the West's top military men today studied just what and how much Eisenhower needs to carry out an accelerated build-up of his international army.

A top-secret listing of forces, airfields, equipment and other requirements was made for them by Eisenhower's chief of staff, Lt.-Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

Attending a closely-guarded meeting were the chiefs of staff of 11 member countries of the N.A.T.O.—including Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., of Canada, and a representative of army-less Iceland.

By-Election Bills Paid Privately

June by-election resulting from the resignation of Mrs. J. D. Hunter, the former Ald. Hilda Baxter, did not cost the city a penny. Ald. Arthur Dowell was elected.

This information was given to City Council in the dying minutes of Tuesday night's meeting by Mayor Percy George.

"Do you mean Doctor Hu . . .?" queried Ald. Frank Mulliner.

He was interrupted by the mayor: "I'm not telling you anything except that the by-election cost the city nothing."

For the record, Skillings asked what the cost to the city would have been had the city paid it. Answer was $491.

Close Liaison In Management Business Need

Need for closer association between management and indivdual office managers in big business was stressed Tuesday night in a talk by Ralph Purves, financial officer of the B.C. Electric.

He was addressing the Victoria branch of the National Office Management Association on the five-week office management course at the University of Western Ontario.

"The office manager should be a member of the management team so that collective thinking can become standard office procedure," said Purves.

'Y' Celebrates Its Centenary

In commemoration of the event, the Victoria "Y" is holding a special service at Metropolitan United Church.

Mayor Percy George will attend the service along with members of all "Y" groups and clubs. The service will begin at 11.

All The King's Horses And All The King's Men . . .

See those five Cougars? At the time this picture was taken, they were the only Cats on the ice as Andy Hebenton was in the penalty box. Flyers had pulled their goalie, Bill Brennan, and sent six forwards against the Cougars. At 19.31 of the third period, Nels Podolsky, John Raynack and Frank Kubasek broke against the Cougars and Podolsky scored from the edge of the crease. That's Podolsky at the left with his stick held high in triumph while Raynak skates in to congratulate him. Kubasek is the ecstatic Flyer at extreme right. The five Cougars who could not stop the Flyer trio are left to right: Roger Leger, Jim Shirley, Bernie Strongman, Ed Dorohoy and Bob Frampton. Cougars held on to win 4-3 and snap a four-game losing streak.

Cats Redeem Selves With Gritty Stand

By BILL WALKER

Victoria 4, Edmonton 3

Edmonton's jet-powered Flyers may be the hottest aerial circus to hit "boom-town" but get 'em down on sea level and they're just another hockey club.

That is, they're just another hockey club when it comes to plain old-fashioned determination as displayed by Victoria's Cougars Tuesday night.

That's what won this one for the Cougars—a 4-3 victory, that was as tough on the nerves as a week-old razor blade—sheer grit plus three outstanding gentlemen who form the Cougars defense corps at the moment.

You've got to hand the accolades to coach Roger Leger, captain Bernie Strongman and Ernie Roche, but in doing so you can't overlook the fact the Cougars were skating as of old. And all deserve honorable mention as the myth which was the Cougars defense became a reality.

Leger played what was probably his best game of the season. He was a titan on defense and was firing from the blue line like the rockets the Flyers were reputed to be packin' on their wing tips.

He slammed the shot that a scrappier Joe Evans tipped in at 17.19 of the first period to break the back of a Flyer manoeuvre that already had accounted for two goals and was threatening to turn the affair into a rout. And he boomed the second drive goalward which Andy Hebenton converted to tie the count at 19.04 while Flyer Bill Pettinger was sitting out a two-minute penalty for tripping.

McIntyre Scores A Beauty

That penalty, incidentally, probably decided the game in the Cougars favor. The Flyers, who, through Pat Coburn and Eldor Thomas had bounced in front and, by all odds, apparently to stay, suddenly faded like last summer's rose.

Just 43 seconds after Hebenton had converted the tying marker, Jack McIntyre performed the histrionic feat of scoring the greatest goal seen on Memorial Arena ice this season and, some 4,500 fans will testify, just about the prettiest effort that 9,000 eyes will ever hope to witness.

Given a perfect pass by Eddie Dorohoy, again his usual imperturbable self, McIntyre stick-handled past a Flyer defenseman, walked in on goalie Brennan, faked him out of his skates, and flipped a backhander home to give the Cougars a 3-2 edge.

In the second period it was Strongman, who time and time again made important key blocks, and who shot Dorohoy away on a goal-making play with Bob Frampton at 2.25, Frampton catching the lower left-hand corner on Brennan.

The torrid pace of the first stanza continued through the second but the Cougars were matching the Flyers stride for stride and gave goalie Jim Shirley his best protection in recent weeks.

But in the third frame, it was nip and tuck with the Flyers again on the wing and the Cougars clawing their way out of trouble.

Even The Linesman Was Good

Both goals were tested in turn but it remained for Shirley to bear the lion's share of the burden. He held the fort safe until after the 19-minute mark when coach Frank Currie, gambling desperately, shelved Brennan for a sixth forward with Hebenton off for tripping.

It was a real dogfight from then on in, Colin Kilburn saving a certain goal from Dorohoy and then starting off the play that Nelson Podolsky completed at 19.31 for the Flyers' dying effort. With Brennan still marking time, the Flyers were in close formation around the Cougar net when the game ended.

And it should also be noted that league president Al Leader's decision to use referee Eddie Powers as a linesman with Bill Knott was more than appreciated. There was no cause for complaint in the officiating in this one.

With the fastest game of the season behind them along with a four-game losing streak which tailed off the rugged schedule of eight games in 12 days, the Cougars can take a well-deserved rest until Friday night when the New Westminster Royals come to town.

By that time Reg Abbott may be back in harness to help ease the strain that has been placed on the 13 men who proved that at least the Flyers aren't invincible, but a dangerous threat for league honors.

Quakers In Sixth Game Without Loss

Saskatoon Quakers vaulted into second place in the Pacific Coast Hockey League race Tuesday night by crashing Calgary Stampeders, 7-2, after trailing 1-0 at the end of the first period.

It was the Quakers' sixth game without defeat and leaves them tied with Seattle for the runner-up spot behind the pace-setting New Westminster Royals who meet Edmonton Flyers tonight.

Seattle is at home to Tacoma in the night's only other game.

Carl Kaiser and Alex Kuzma each scored twice for Saskatoon. The other goals went to Neil Strain, Johnny Chad and Tommy Fowler.

Both Calgary goals went to Ernie Dickens.

Quakers took a 3-2 lead in the middle period and fired in four straight goals in the third period. Calgary didn't reply.

Sport Week

By JOHN LARDNER

When the time came, as it did last week, for the Brooklyn baseball club to rehire Charlie Dressen, a manager now famous for having dissipated the biggest lead since the hare blew the duke to the tortoise, it was interesting to note from the reactions that one thing a good many people, critics and fans, seem to have been holding against Charles is his steady cultivation of the word "I."

You would have to conclude that the word "I" is one of the dirtiest and rarest in the English language—unused, hitherto, except by sports columnists, who often file down the other keys on their typewriters for fear of hitting something besides the "I" key, and by Frank Leahy, football coach at Notre Dame, who borrowed the expression as a structural model for his I-formation. (In the I-formation, to digress for a second, the quarterback stands behind the centre, and the tenor stands behind the quarterback, followed in order by the bass and the baritone. This makes it easier to pass a water bucket from hand to hand, in case of fire.)

Lardner

What some people had against Dressen, it would appear, is that he said things like "I beat the Phillies 5-0 yesterday, in spite of the lousy umpiring," or "If I take two out of three in this next series, I ought to be in the clear." In a more tolerant mood, Charlie might remark: "I can run faster than Durocher, but his pitching is deeper, and he hits the longer ball."

Now, this is nothing more nor less than the baseball-managerial "I," which has been in business for generations. McGraw used it. Chance used it. Joe McCarthy used it. A distinction should be made between the baseball manager and the fight manager.

After Me, You Come First, Pal

Where the baseball man says "I," the fight manager says "We." It's a curious, but well-established, psychological truth that it is easier to ignore 25 partners (i.e., a ball club) than it is to ignore one partner (i.e., a pugilist). But the two forms of speech have this in common. They are changeable without notice. The fight manager's "We" is fissionable, while the baseball manager's "I" can disappear like dew in the morning sun.

The fight manager may say: "We beat this bum in Pittsburgh." But, if the decision went the other way, he will say: "We fought this guy in Pittsburgh, and he beat my bum."

The baseball manager may say: "I pitched the big fellow low and inside. That's his weakness." But, if it happened that the big fellow hit the ball into a parking lot next door, he will say: "My pitcher threw it right where he loves 'em. What can you do if they won't even look to the bench for a sign?"

Criticism of Mr. Dressen has been so intense lately that there was a blush on the cheek of Waler O'Malley, his boss, when he said: "Charlie will be back next year," and Dressen blushed when he accepted the reappointment. Considering how painful it is for a man to break himself of the habit of saying "I" (women and children don't fight such habits, which accounts for their wonderful health), Dressen may appear for spring training next year in a state of nervous breakdown from the series of winter exercises that he is said to be about to undertake. In a restaurant, for instance, the calisthenics will take this form:

He Might Just As Well Be Dead

Waiter: "What do you want?"

Dressen: "I—that is, the team as a whole, for this is one fighting unit, with everyone pulling his weight—want steak and mushrooms."

Waiter: "That will be $79.90."

At the movie house:

Usher: "Are you alone?"

Dressen: "I—no, every Dodger is behind the other."

Usher: "Try the balcony, please."

On the golf course:

Opponent: "Nice shot, Charlie."

Dressen: "Give the credit to Reese and Robinson. And where would we be without Roe's pitching?"

Opponent: "Search me."

All in all, this is going to be a very trying ordeal for Mr. Dressen. And for his friends, too. My advice to them is, keep in touch with Charlie by telephone from time to time, to see how things are going, but if the Dodgers-as-a-whole answer, hang up.

Matthews, the Seattle boy who claims champion Joey Maxim is afraid to fight him, weighed 177 for the bout. Whitlock weighed 182 pounds.

As Sawchuk Goes So Go The Wings

By The Canadian Press

Terry Sawchuk is showing Detroit Red Wings the way home in the National Hockey League race.

The Winnipeg-born net-minder scored his fourth shut-out, collaring the Boston Bruins 2-0 Tuesday night.

The victory also proved a booster for his goals-against average.

While the agile goalie keeps them out, the Red Wings are consistent in their scoring to lead the league in points with 25. This is a seven-point edge over their nearest rivals, Toronto Maple Leafs.

Voted the outstanding rookie last season and awarded the Calder Memorial Trophy, Sawchuk now seems to be fighting for the Vezina Trophy awarded each year to the goaltender who has let the lowest number of pucks past him.

Sawchuk's average now is 1.84, one-tenth less than Toronto's Al Rollins, who copped the Vezina last year.

Red Kelly and Tony Leswick scored in the last period last night to find a wide gap of scoreless play between the Wings and Bruins. The clubs had battled through 114 minutes and 57 seconds of scoreless hockey in their last two games on Boston ice.

Defenseman Kelly fired his counter into an empty Boston cage after goalie Sugar Jim Henry was removed for a sixth forward in the last minute of play.

SUMMARY

Three Hours In The Life Of The Victoria Viduals

By DENNY BOYD

Victoria Individuals held a team meeting last night to decide if they had:

1. A basketball team.
2. A coach.
3. A manager.
4. Any opponents.
5. Any money.
6. Any friends.

The meeting lasted three hours. It was held, at different times, in the dressing room at Victoria High School, in the janitor's room at Victoria High School and on the front steps at Victoria High School.

Attending the meeting were manager Sid Watson, trainer Pat Horrigan and players Vic Dale, Johnny Clark, Rookie Wright, Vince Clarkson, Bob Boyes and Elmer Curtis.

ABSENTEES

Missing from the meeting were coach Norm Baker and players Porky Andrews, Wes Maulsted and Johnny Fields. Baker stayed away because he wanted the players to make their own decisions. Andrews stayed away because he stated he is not too interested in playing without Baker.

Baker has been refused reinstatement by the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association and thereby hangs most of the woes of the club.

At 9.30, the players met in the dressing room. One hour later they decided that they were broke and if they did not play games that they have been committed to, notably two Vancouver games, the entire team faced suspension.

At 10.30, they adjourned to the janitor's room. There they decided that even without Baker, they still have a classy team. All players present admitted that they are in poor physical condition.

Horrigan suggested that the team approach Andrews and ask him to coach the club. It was then suggested that Baker might still be interested in coaching even though he will not be able to play. This decision was left until the next meeting.

WARM BUT COLD

At 11.30, the meeting moved to the front steps of the high school. The weather was cold but the discussion was warm. Watson suggested that he resign as manager to protect the players from any mistakes that he may have made in arranging games. The players would not hear of this and Watson agreed to stay with them for at least another week.

At 12.15, it was agreed that the Individuals would play the Hawaiian All-Stars here Saturday night. Arrangements for the game will be handled by the club's one friend, the Victoria and District Basketball Association.

At 12.30, the players went home, much happier and a much more united club than they had been three hours before.

STUKUS NERVOUS WRECK FROM FOOTBALL

Worrying Not One Of Frank's Faults

By BILL WALKER

Frank Currie is softspoken, almost shy when he's discussing hockey. And there's nothing Frank would like to discuss more than hockey, unless it's Canadian football as played by Edmonton Eskimos.

There's probably a good reason for this, too, as Frank has a philosophy about coaching that apparently Annie "Big Stuke" Stukus, coach of the Eskimos, didn't have. This in no way detracts from Stukus' ability as a coach, however. Frank says Stuke was tremendously popular in Edmonton.

But it's Frank's theory that a coach needn't worry about his team all the time. "That's the worst thing in the world," he says. "Me! I just like to go away and forget about it, when everything's going wrong. Games are still won and lost on the ice and you can't win if you haven't the correct mental attitude."

As opposed to Frank, probably not in theory but in reaction, Stukus is a bundle of nerves from the beginning of the football season to the end. "I don't know how you hockey coaches do it," Frank says Stukus told him. "Seventy games in one season, while I'm worn out after 14."

However, and you can take Currie's word for it, Stukus is the man who put the word football in every Edmontonian's vocabulary. "He was a natural buffer between the thousands of fans and the team," says Frank. "He just had the happy knack of making everybody like him."

As proof Frank offers the fact that Edmonton averaged about 10,000 per regular game through the season with as high as 13-14,000 at the playoffs with Winnipeg Bombers and Regina Roughriders.

"Football fever was at a fever pitch, if such could be the case, during the recent playdowns. Why, the afternoon of the final game in Regina, you could have shot a cannon down the main street and not hit a person. Everyone was indoors listening to their radios."

FRANK CURRIE

As to hockey, Frank didn't have too much to say. "I will be able to tell more about the club after this road trip (Edmonton's first visit to the coast)," he said. "But so far it seems like a well-balanced league with no outstanding team."

Queried about the possibility of Calgary being a "weak sister," Frank replied: "Don't count Calgary out. They have a habit of bouncing back when you think they're on the ropes. Last year in the W.C.H.L. we got off to a flying start. We were 16 points ahead of the pack, but Calgary took us down a peg or two before the season was over."

In support of his theory concerning "It's no use worrying," Frank said last year he took his Flyers up to Jasper for a few days before the league playdowns. "We just loafed around and had a good time," he said.

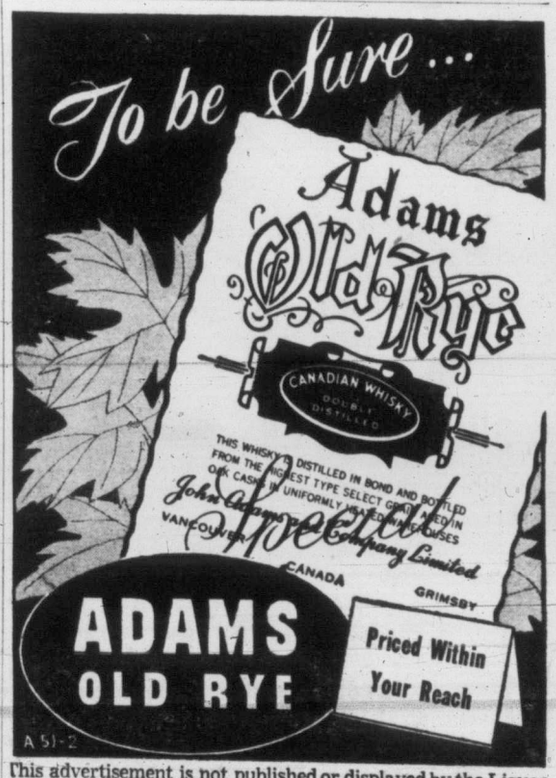

"We had been in a slump before then, but with the boys rested there was a great improvement, even though we did get knocked off in seven games by Saskatoon Quakers in the finals."

Currie wasn't too optimistic about his Flyers running away and hiding from the rest of the league. But he intimated strongly that he was satisfied with his club which averages just 23 years of age, youngest in the league.

What's the biggest blow to a team?

"Injuries," says Currie. "They hurt you at the time and long afterwards. For example when you're playing under full strength, the players are carrying a heavy load. Then when your injured players come back, they're not in shape right away, and usually by that time, the rest of the boys have run out of gas."

Pick a standout team. Currie wouldn't do it. He saw it as an eight-team race down to the wire.

PROBLEM RESTS WITH COLLEGES SAYS JUDGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (CP).—The judge who handed out jail sentences in the basketball bribery scandal told the colleges of the United States Tuesday it was their task—not the district attorney's—to keep their athleics clean.

Judge Saul S. Streit followed his sentencing of a fixer and former players by declaring:

"'Unless the colleges take heed, all the efforts of the district attorneys, the state and the entire exposures will serve no purpose whatsoever."

The jurist commented to newspapermen in his chambers in the face of disclaimers from officials of some of the colleges he named as over-emphasizing commercialism or winking at athletics' scholastic abilities.

"The condition exists," Streit said, "and denials, reports and surveys will serve no purpose unless the college administrations change their present methods."

DOBBS KEY TO GREY CUP

Roughies Hit By Injuries

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP)—"I'm not kidding, we've got miseries," said Harry (Black Jack) Smith Tuesday. And a first look at the Saskatchewan Roughriders convinced onlookers that coach Smith, built like a baby tank, wasn't kidding.

"Practically every guy on our first team has a bruise or a lump somewhere—ankle, leg, knee or hip," sad Jack said in an interview shortly after his western Canada football champions arrived in town for Saturday's Grey cup final. But he had his "crocked up" team out for a two-hour practise session anyway.

Probably the biggest source of grief in the Roughie's camp is end Jack Russell who didn't dress for the practise on a public school field. The former New York Yankee pass-catching star who scored 45 points on nine touchdowns in Western League play has a torn knee cartilege.

The team, watched by a couple of hundred kids from a nearby school, a few newspaper men and others interested in the Roughies, who haven't won a Grey cup in their history, didn't show much of their stuff. They tossed some forwards, tackled dummies and ran back punts to work the creaks out of their joints after the two-day train ride from Regina.

Practises are on the schedule every day until Friday for the big game against either Ottawa Roughriders or Sarnia Imperials. The Riders, Big Four champions, met the Ontario Rugby Football Union titleholders at Ottawa today for the eastern title.

Glenn Dobbs, Saskatchewan's six-foot-four-inch quarter and probably the most popular player around Regina, is the most photographed and talked-to man on the club.

The youngsters "mobbed" him before the practise and he was tossed for a loss by sprawling to the ground when a few tackled him. He won their hearts by posing with 15 or 20 of them for newspaper photographers.

Jack Wedley, former Toronto Argonaut star in the Big Four who will be playing in his seventh Grey Cup final this year, figured his Roughriders would take the trophy. He pinned their hopes on triple-threat Dobbs.

"I think we'll win," Wedley said. "Dobbs is good."

Police Boxers To Present Heavy Battles

There will be plenty of muscles at the Victoria Police Club's boxing show at Victoria Ballroom Thursday night.

The club has arranged four bouts that will match well-known sluggers in the heavy brackets to give the customers a taste of big guns.

If final arrangements are successful, Alberni's Sammy May, one of the best sluggers ever to tie on a glove in Victoria, will meet Bert Wilkinson of Esquimalt in a 160-pound battle. In the 150 class, Ronnie Joe of Police will tangle with Terry McVeeters of the R.C.N.

In two 135-pound contests, Earl Vance of Esquimalt is matched with Phil Paul, son of Chief Thunderbird, and Navy's Bob Blaine meets Ralph Warner of St. Louis College.

Complete card follows:

58 Pounds—Dale McIlroon (Police) vs. Richard Tachritter (Esquimalt).
65 Pounds—Bryan O'Hara (St. Louis) vs. Gordie McGaw (Esquimalt).
75 Pounds—Bob Musgrove (Police) vs. Gordon Rabey (St. Louis).

Monarchs Get Clipped Again

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 21 (CP)—Nanaimo Clippers chalked up another victory over Kerrisdale Monarch Tuesday night, hammering the mainland squad 8-4.

Mel Gordeau, star of two previous seasons, returned to Clippers and was personally responsible for half the team's goals.

Sailors Tie

Naden and Courtenay United fought to a 5-5 tie over the weekend in an exhibition soccer game at Colville Road.

Navy opened strongly and rapped in three fast goals to take a 3-0 lead at the half. In the second half, Courtenay began a series of rushes that caught the sailors off guard. Before Navy could get untracked Frank Coates had scored five goals for Courtenay.

However, Navy came back with a brace of goals late in the game to force the tie. Navy had previously beaten Courtenay 4-1 earlier in the season.

Mrs. V. S. Godfrey was three down in Tuesday's women's par competition at Victoria Golf Club to win silver division honors. Mrs. G. Hall won the bronze division, 1 down.

Bowl Games To Be Curtailed

Drastic Plan Mooted For College Athletes

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (UP)—A drastic plan to curtail bowl games and basketball tournaments, financial aid, practice sessions and eligibility will be presented to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Cincinnati convention Jan. 9-12.

The program was approved by the policy-making N.C.A.A. council after a two-day session. It called for:

1. A resolution requesting members to make no commitments for post-season games after Jan. 2, 1953, pending a report by the extra events committee on how to eliminate pressures such games create.

2. Two constitutional amendments on out-of-season football and basketball practice, one limiting practice to the season of the sport, the other restricting workouts to 20 days. The convention would be asked to approve one.

3. A constitutional amendment requiring an athlete, to remain eligible, to enter in accordance with published requirements, maintain academic standing, and make satisfactory progress toward a degree.

4. A constitutional amendment making ineligible any athlete who receives financial assistance not administered or approved by his institution.

5. A resolution to give the football rules committee survey results showing the "majority" of members "want something done" to limit free football substitutions, affecting the platoon system.

6. A resolution appointing a committee to study scheduling practices and recommend to the 1953 convention limits on the number of games and the length of season for all sports, particularly football and basketball.

The council also approved a statement that college athletics' difficulties arise from undue pressure to win, particularly upon coaches, and the need for football gate receipts to finance athletic programs.

Five other agencies have "signified an intention" to help seek solutions for these, the council said. They were the American Council on Education, accrediting agencies, the National Student Association, the National Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions, and the Football Writers' Association.

The resolution covering Bowl games said a "nation-wide survey . . . found a strong sentiment against continuance of post-season games."

Should the convention support the resolution and later bar such contests, only the Rose Bowl, which has both the Pacific Coast and Big Ten Conferences committed to furnish teams, could operate in 1954 for the last time. Presumably all basketball tournaments would cease in 1953.

ARMY, NAVY FIND ROUGH GOING

Military Drafts Hit Teams

By DENNY BOYD

When you are coaching or managing a service team in a league that competes with civilian teams, you run into many difficulties that the civvy clubs don't have.

These problems are the ones that have been giving the high brass of the Army and Navy teams in the Commercial Hockey League many a gray hair this year.

It's the problem of making the most of what you have when what you have may be leaving at any moment. Furthermore you cannot bolster what you have with outside help by offering a promising defenseman a lucrative job—the only job you can offer him is a long-term hitch with His Majesty's services.

So far this year, the Army and Navy clubs have not been on a par with the stronger teams of the mercantile loop. In five games, Army has won two and Navy only one. Navy's victory came over the soldiers in the first game of the season.

The crux of the problem—and this applies especially to the Navy—is that military drafts are not guided by the sports officer. If a hockey player is due for a draft, he will go regardless of the fact he is the star of the team. It may weaken the team but you don't join up to play hockey.

Navy has suffered most from drafts this season. They have in Roy Bird and Doug Johnson two of the best defensemen in the league—or at least they were last season. This season they are at sea and are not expected back until late December, two-thirds of the way through the season.

Last year they had one of the best goalies, certainly the most colorful, in the person of Norm Jones. Right now Jones is somewhere in Korea.

At the beginning of the season, Army hockey officials were unhappy at the lack of defensemen in their camp. Although the situation has bettered somewhat, they could be a top threat with the addition of another fast forward to spell Cy Varys, Rod Hallam and Roy White who exhaust themselves every game. Most of their depth behind the forward line is in goalie Fred Lange who must be seen to be believed.

Tonight, both Army and Navy are facing tough teams. In the first game of the three-game card, Navy takes on third-place Individuals in the first meeting of the two clubs and in the third game, Army tackles first-place Seven-Ups, the team that has lost only one game.

The middle game of the trio matches Victoria Merchants, in second place with three wins, one loss and one tie, with Civil Service. The servants have won only two games, but both have come in their last two games and the club has shown great improvement since the first games of the season.

TIME OUT! By Jeff Keate

CLARK GRIFFITH SAYS:

Present Draft System Cheats Young Players

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 21 (UP) — The present baseball draft rule providing that only one player from each minor league team may be drafted into the majors is blocking the progress of deserving young players, owner Clark Griffith, of the Washington Senators, said today.

The 82-year-old baseball magnate said he would propose at the major league meetings in New York next month that this rule be changed.

Griffith explained that some major league teams owning farm systems were taking advantage of this rule to "protect" many of their choice farm system players from the draft.

They do this, he explained, by putting most of their minor league stars on the roster of a single team. Thus, as soon as one player in his group has been drafted, all the others immediately become draft-proof.

Baseball men at the recent draft meeting in Cincinnati noticed the Brooklyn Dodgers using tactics similar to those described by Griffith. At draft time, most of the Dodgers' best minor leaguers were on the roster of the Montreal Royals of the International League. The St. Louis Browns, who had first draft choice, picked hard-hitting Royals' outfielder George Schmees, and thus the other Royals' stars were made ineligible.

Bannister Hurt

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Roger Bannister, the British mile champion and a favorite for the 1,500-metre run at the 1952 Helsinki Olympics, has injured his left leg in training. Bannister, a medical student in London, had six stitches taken in a gash received when he crashed into an embankment during a training run.

100,000th U.S. War Casualty

Korea Conflict Proves 4th Costliest In History; Marines Suffer Heavy Loss

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The 100,000th American has been killed or wounded or is missing in Korea. This mark is recorded and passed in the defense department's weekly summary of combat casualties due to be issued today. The report, which runs about two weeks behind the battle action, covers 16 months of fighting.

United States families have been told of some 22,000 casualties among their men since Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway first offered to talk about an armistice last June 30.

About seven of every 10 American battle losses have been suffered since the Chinese Communists poured across the Manchurian border a little more than a year ago.

REDUCE FIGURE

The 70,000 U.S. casualties reported since the Chinese entered the war include nearly 8,000 of the 12,500 Americans listed at one time or another as missing in action. This missing figure has been reduced to a current total of about 10,800. Among these are the same 5,500 Americans reported by Lt.-Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the war crimes section of the U.S. Eighth Army in Korea, to have been killed by their captors.

Ridgway said in a report early today there was "considerable evidence" that approximately 6,000 U.S. soldiers captured by the Communists were victims of "death by atrocity." He said there was no "conclusive evidence" of the number of atrocity deaths, and that 254 victims had been identified and their families notified.

Approximately one-half of all U.S. casualties have occurred since the bitter retreats and withdrawals of last winter and during the series of Red spring offensives and U.N. counter-blows which have moved the battle line back to the centre of Korea.

For the army and the navy, the Korean conflict has been the fourth costliest in U.S. history, ranking in human casualties after the Second World War, the Civil War and the First World War.

Marine corps losses of more than 16,000 make it more costly than all the wars, campaigns and expeditions which Marines fought from the Civil War until the start of the Second World War.

DREAM TEAM NAMED

Tiger Cats Dominate Big Four All-Stars

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP)—Collectively, Ottawa's all-powerful Roughriders are the hottest guys of the Big Four football season. But individually the plaudits may be directed to the ever-gallant Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The Bengals took the personal honors.

At least, that's the way the experts—football writers, coaches and sportscasters—looked at it in the annual Canadian Press all-star poll announced Tuesday. The selectors placed five Tiger-Cats on the dream team, two more than the title-winning Riders who knocked out the Cats in their two-game total-points final series.

Toronto Argonauts, who softened up Tiger-Cats for the Ottawa kill in a bruising two-game semi-final round, also placed three men on the team. The high-priced Montreal Alouettes came up with one—inside Ray Cicia, who made the CP all-stars for his third consecutive season.

Team follows:

Flying wing—Bruce Cummings, Ottawa.
Half—Hal Waggoner, Hamilton.
Half—Ulysses Curtis, Toronto.
Half—Billy Bass, Toronto.
Quarter—Bernie Custis, Hamilton.
Snap—Rockets Hirsch, Toronto.
Inside—Ray Cicia, Montreal.
Inside—Eddie Bevan, Hamilton.
Middle—Bob Gain, Ottawa.
Middle—Jack Carpenter, Hamilton.
Outside—Vince Mazza, Hamilton.
Outside—Bob Simpson, Ottawa.

Hughes weighed in fish weighing 11½ and 10½ pounds to win a trolling rod and a set of tackle for his double win. Alec Wilson's 9¾-pounder netted him a prize of mixed sports equipment. Prize for weighing in the first three fish went to E. Ellis, while Ellis and A. Edge took the hidden weight prizes.

Percy Kilbride First-Class Attraction For Tourists

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov 8 (AP)—For years tourists have expected to find movie stars strolling along Hollywood Boulevard and for years they have been disappointed. But now the famed street has its dream boy and his name is Percy Kilbride.

The eagle-nosed, wry-voiced actor can be seen ankling up the boulevard every evening. It's a ritual with him. A bachelor, he lives nearby and walking down the big street is his prime exercise, hobby and entertainment.

"I guess I know every cobblestone," he remarked. He also knows every store front, newsboy and orange juice stand. And habituees of the boulevard have grown accustomed to seeing his familiar face.

Kilbride views his success as Pa Kettle in the Kettle series with mixed feelings. He enjoys the security of a sure job once or twice a year. But he has found that the endless characterization has limited his career.

"On the stage I did all kinds of parts, including eccentric comedians," he said. "But the role that brought me out to Hollywood was that of a rural sort of a fellow in 'George Washington Slept Here.' I repeated the role in the movie and I've been doing the same sort of thing since."

Would he like to do a dramatic role?

"You bet I would. But I'm afraid I can't convince the producers. They probably think the audience would laugh as soon as it sees my face. And they could be right."

Pro Football Fever Spreads In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP)—The missing link in Western Canada football—a Vancouver entry—may be reforged in 1952.

All that is needed is $25,000 on the line Jan. 1 to deposit with the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union and another $200,000 for operating expenses.

But it may be possible. A million and one schemes are under consideration to raise the money, including the floating of a bond issue.

Four hundred sharp-eyed fans, most of them from the prairies, got on the booster band wagon Monday night, many pledging financial support to make 1952 a revival year.

The back-to-football movement is sparked by Tiny Rader and Orville Burke, former Ottawa Roughriders' star, who came here to coach the University of British Columbia team two years ago.

STEARNS TO BARONS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 21 (AP)—Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League announced Tuesday they have acquired Cal Stearns, high-scoring forward, from Seattle Ironmen, an affiliate club in the Pacific Coast Hockey League. The Barons said they were shipping Ray Ceresino, a speedy left wing, to the Ironmen.

Completing a cycle of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, the Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society of Victoria presented a return performance of "H.M.S. Pinafore." It was received with an enthusiasm that proves such musical satire is eternally popular.

About six years ago, the G. and S. Society made their premier appearance across the footlights with "Pinafore." Tuesday night's opening marks a milestone of the society's advancing excellence. The show opened and closed with the hallmark of veteran performers.

In vitality and cohesion members of the chorus were reminiscent of the D'Oyley Carte company. That they appeared crowded in their movement did nothing to detract from their singing.

The society is to be congratulated on its efforts to obtain the re-appearance of many of the original soloists, a fact that had much to do with the polish of the opening night.

Re-creating her original role as "Josephine" was Dorothy Kenwa i Smith. Here was ease of performance and an exceedingly sweet voice. However, her presentation could have been improved by clearer enunciation.

Mildred Allen gave a sparkling characterization of the famous bumboat woman. Obviously at home in the part, she was sure and lively.

John Boel in the leading role of "Ralph Rackstraw" did some fine acting. His singing had the quality of sympathy and manliness needed in a difficult and exacting portrayal.

Alan Robertson certainly looked the part of Sir Joseph. His movement and character were excellent, but perhaps opening night did something to lessen the vigor and projection of his voice.

Among the many delightful touches viewed in Tuesday night's presentation, was the middie's hornpipe, danced by 12-year-old Jeanie Burns.

The orchestra, directed by Harry Bigsby; the scenery; the professional standard attained by the performers, totaled a worthwhile evening's entertainment.

Much credit goes to the director, Victor Mills, and his hard-working cohorts.

Canada Backing West Arms Plan

Pearson Urges Way Be Found To Break Circle Of Fear Holding Back Joint East-West Action

PARIS, Nov. 21 (CP)—Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, said today a way must be found to break "the vicious circle of fear" holding back East-West disarmament.

Pearson, Canada's chief delegate to the United Nations, told the U.N.'s 60-member political committee in the debate on the Western disarmament proposal that the only way to cut through the circle is by establishment of U.N. agencies for international arms inspection.

His statement put Canada behind the proposal presented by the United States, France and Britain. But, he added, their suggestions are not necessarily the only ones which could be devised, and he is anxious to hear any others.

Pearson's prepared speech was free from the harsh anti-Soviet words which characterized his general debate address, but nevertheless struck at the arguments advanced by Andrei Vishinsky, Russian foreign minister, against the Western plan. All Western U.N. statements have been free of invective since last week's moderately-worded address by Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

Western delegates awaited Vishinsky's answer to the West—expected to set the tone for the rest of the session.

Pearson said the question of confidence lies at the root of effective disarmament. Therefore a paper agreement without guarantees—as suggested by Russia—was not enough.

"We must begin by putting trust, not in each other—which for the time being is impossible—but in U.N. agencies which we hope to set up," he said.

He said East-West confidence could grow if both advance step by step in the proposed stages of the Western disarmament plan.

Rejecting Russian charges that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is aggressive, Pearson said there is nothing inconsistent in N.A.T.O.'s military build-up and the Western disarmament proposals.

He said the confidence the West is gaining in the N.A.T.O. defense build-up should make it easier for the West to negotiate with Russia, and thus make some N.A.T.O. strength unnecessary.

Not A Care In The World

Anyone might think President Truman didn't have the toughest job, with the biggest worries in the troubled world to see him flash his early morning "walking" smile at the Key West, Fla., navy base where he is currently vacationing. The jaunty cap and sports shirt are presidential vacation trademarks. The lift he got from his holiday was reflected in the fighting speech he made Tuesday night.

Pair Of Island Thugs Cool In Manitoba Jail

Two 18-year-old Vancouver Island men were jailed for nine months in Manitoba Tuesday.

R.C.M.P. report that Raymond Matson, Cowichan Station, and Ernest D. Clark, Jordan River, were sentenced for breaking and entering at Soures, Man.

They were apprehended in the United States and returned to Canada.

The pair, after questioning, admitted to Manitoba police that they broke into Victoria's Lone Star Service Station, 2121 Douglas, on the night of Sept. 6. The station office was ransacked but nothing was stolen, city police said.

Club Features Handel Music

Schubert Club soloists featured the music of Handel at a recital given Tuesday night in Centennial United Church.

Guest tenor Leonard Stelk sang the ever-popular "Where E'er You Walk," and Miss Alice Waddell, soprano, chose "Thanks Be to Thee" as one of her selections.

Birke Brookbank, guest violinist, played the first movement of Handel's Sonata No. 3.

Maidie Carver was soloist with the choir, conducted by Frederic King. Choral selections included two negro spirituals, "Deep River" and "I Don't Feel No Ways Tired," and compositions of Nathaniel Dett, Albert Moffat and Peter de Rose.

McKelvie Explores Bright B.C. History

McKelvie spoke about events leading up to the appointment of Sir James Douglas as the province's first governor.

Truman Says Party Won't Take 'Smear' War Doggo

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—President Truman, in a speech reminiscent of his 1948 "give-'em-hell" style, said Tuesday night that the Democrats won't take lying down the "lies and smears" he anticipates from Republicans and "special interests" in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Truman told party members he thinks more money will be spent "in trying to defeat the Democratic party next year than has ever before been spent in any election in the history of the country."

This brought from Republicans a reiteration of "corruption" charges. Truman did not mention in his speech any of the charges of wrongdoing which have been alleged against his administration.

His declaration that "the truth and the facts are on our side" brought a retort from Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep., O.), that "President Truman should certainly get the prize for political effrontery" for his speech.

Guy G. Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican national committee, said Truman had "a flash of realism" when he said "a mistake in a presidential election can cause the country untold harm."

"The reminder isn't necessary for millions of Americans," Gabrielson said. "They are disgusted and alarmed at the high taxes, high prices, corruption, crises and war of his incompetent administration."

Without naming the senator, Truman singled out Taft with the assertion that "special interests" had poured money into Ohio last year to re-elect the Republican.

Taft, an avowed candidate for his party's presidential nomination, said in a statement in Cincinnati that "it is the Truman party which is the beneficiary of the money of special interests and of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money used for political propaganda . . ."

Taft said the C.I.O. and A.F.L. had undertaken to raise $30,000,000 from union members "to purge all Republicans from Congress."

Frost Damage to Plumbing

It is possible that, during the coming winter, we will experience severe weather conditions, which could cause damage to your premises.

The plumbing lines and fixtures are, of course, the items most vulnerable to damage from freezing. Extra precautions in turning off the water supply, draining pipes and fixtures not in use, adding coal oil to traps and other measures will save considerable expense and inconvenience to yourself. As you no doubt know, such preventative measures are your responsibility.

Creamier Scrambled Eggs with the Milk that Whips!

4 eggs
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup Carnation Milk, undiluted
1 tablespoon butter

Beat eggs. Add salt, pepper, Carnation Milk; beat again. Melt butter in saucepan over medium heat; add egg mixture. Cook slowly, stirring occasionally, until firm but not hard. Serves 4. Carnation, undiluted, gives wonderful "creamy" flavor — yet costs less than half as much as cream.

So Good for All Cooking!

NOTHING BUT WATER is removed from Carnation Milk. (Only vitamin D is added.) So this doubly concentrated milk is doubly useful.

FOR EVERY MILK USE — mix Carnation with an equal amount of water. You get velvet-smooth, rich-flavored whole milk for cooking and drinking.

FOR USE LIKE CREAM — in coffee . . . on cereals and fruits . . . in cream recipes, or for whipping, use Carnation undiluted. So good — yet so thrifty.

Blind Man On Tour To 'See' Society Work

High praise for Victorians working on behalf of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is paid by Edward Dunlop, Ottawa, who has been visiting the city.

Dunlop, executive director of the society's national office, came here on a cross-country tour taking in all branches of the organization.

Although blind as the result of war injury, Dunlop has undertaken the tour to—as he puts it—"see at first hand" what is going on.

HAS FULL DAY

Dunlop put in a full day on C.A.R.S. business here. He visited clinics maintained at both Victoria hospitals and called upon arthritic patients at Mt. St. Mary's Hospital. He lunched with members of the Victoria branch's medical advisory board at St. Joseph's Hospital and spoke to members of the Women's Auxiliary at a tea given at the home of Works Minister and Mrs. E. C. Carson.

Later he spoke at a regular meeting of the Victoria branch at Red Cross House.

There he talked with enthusiasm of the accomplishments of the Victoria branch, paying special tribute to the auxiliary and to doctors who give freely of their time at clinic sessions.

He said Victoria and Vancouver, which actually started the society two years ago, were continuing to set the pace for the whole of Canada.

Miss Mary Pack, organizing secretary of the society in B.C., accompanied Dunlop here.

STACCATO APTLY NAMED

Hand-Built Speed Job Will Be Drivers' Envy

By DAVE STOCK

There's been plenty of midnight oil burning in the basement at Jack Smith's home, 332 Dallas, during the last six months.

And now the product of Smith's labors has been unveiled.

The veteran master mechanic, race car builder and former race driver has turned out a new sports roadster which is one of the raciest-looking machines ever seen here. It will be the envy of many.

The car is owned by Bruce Passmore, race car enthusiast and former operator of Langford Speedway.

The machine was planned by Smith and Passmore a year and a half ago. Originally it was to be strictly a racing car. That's why the car has chrome axles—even though they aren't seen.

Plans were changed and modified slightly when Passmore sold his race track to Langford School.

The car bears the name Staccato and will be registered as such. The name was Smith's idea.

THREE FEET HIGH

The machine weighs 2,200 pounds and has a 96-inch wheelbase. Over-all length is 14 feet. The car is just three feet high.

Under the long, low bonnet there's a Ford six engine block with a special Smith-designed racing-type head. There are three carburetors. The pistons are the same as used by racing cars and there's a four-speed transmission.

The engine is given a 253 horsepower rating.

FLICK OF FINGER

Only a slight turn of the steering wheel is needed to bring the wheels around. Rear tires are bigger than the front.

The body was built by Mooney's.

Although not properly broken in and tested, the car is thought to be equal to speeds up to 150 miles per hour.

Passmore says he has no intention of selling the machine but says he puts the car's value at $3,600.

In order that the many Victorians interested in automobiles may see the car, it will be on show all this week and next at Passmore's Speedway Auto Sales, Yates Street, between Blanshard and Quadra.

A collection will be taken with proceeds being turned over to the B.C. Protestant Orphanage.

Father Fails To Provide For Family

Gordon Douglas Graham pleaded guilty in city police court today to neglecting his wife and two children reported to be destitute.

Prosecutor James J. Proudfoot told the court Graham walked out on his family four months ago and hadn't provided "a cent" for their maintenance since, in spite of the fact he was employed.

Graham was remanded to Friday. Magistrate H. C. Hall asked for a probation officer's report.

'Specs' Wanted By U.S. Group For Destitute

An appeal is being made here by a unique organization "New Eyes for the Needy Inc., with headquarters in Short Hills, New Jersey, for discarded eyeglasses.

The discarded eyeglasses are turned into new glasses for people who cannot afford spectacles. The gold and silver frames and scrap are sold to a refiner and the money thus realized is used to pay for eye examinations and new prescription lenses for needy people.

Local optometrists said the organization had no representatives in Victoria and that all donations would have to be sent direct to New Jersey.

The optometrists commended the work of the organization. "It's a good idea," they said, "but it must take many thousands of eyeglasses to enable the organization to carry on with its charitable work."

Here is an opportunity for your soldier husband, son or brother to hear your voice on the overseas fronts.

Allan Macy, of Radio Appliances, today offered to take wire voice recordings for Christmas messages to be sent to Canadian soldiers overseas—in Korea or Germany.

"And it will be done at cost price on my part," Macy said.

Ship With Two Masters Here Taking Lumber For 'Aussies'

A ship with two captains—that's the Ss. Lakemba.

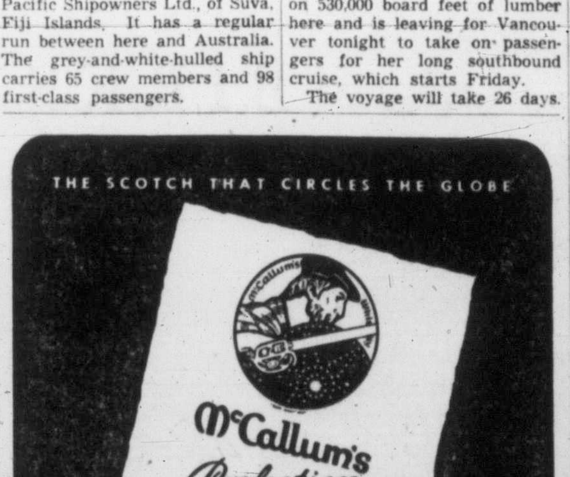

The 7,459-ton cargo-passenger vessel, now at Ogden Point loading lumber, has as its master Capt. David J. Coutts. When the ship's operating in B.C. coastal waters, however, Capt. A. M. Harvey takes charge.

The Lakemba is operated by Pacific Shipowners Ltd., of Suva, Fiji Islands. It has a regular run between here and Australia. The grey-and-white-hulled ship carries 65 crew members and 98 first-class passengers.

The Lakemba was actually built as a naval maintenance escort vessel, and was commissioned as H.M.S. Spurm Point. It was converted for cargo-passenger service after the war at Victoria Machinery Depot.

The ship reached Victoria on Tuesday afternoon after having made up-island calls at Crofton and Chemainus. She is taking on 530,000 board feet of lumber here and is leaving for Vancouver tonight to take on passengers for her long southbound cruise, which starts Friday.

The voyage will take 26 days.

Rail Heads To Convene Here Nov. 29

Interchange facilities—both as to physical properties and traffic—will be discussed by high-ranking officials of the Canadian National and Pacific Great Eastern Railways in Victoria Nov. 29, Premier Byron Johnson said today.

Agreements will be necessary between the two companies upon completion of the P.G.E. from Quesnel to Prince George.

Transfer of ownership of right-of-way occupied by the Prince Rupert-Hazelton highway also will be discussed.

"It is expected that trains will be running through to Prince George by June of next year, and before traffic moves over this line it is necessary to complete handling of traffic to and from C.N.R. tracks," explained the Premier.

In connection with the right-of-way discussions, Premier Johnson continued, it will be recalled that during the last war the Department of National Defense constructed a road from Hazelton to Prince Rupert. Part of the highway was built on C.N.R. right-of-way. After the war, the road was turned over to the B.C. public works department.

"The fact that the province does not own the right-of-way upon which the road has been constructed presents difficulties from time to time in connection with road development work," said Premier Johnson. "It is hoped from these discussions to find a basis of mutual agreement whereby the difficulties presented by this situation may be overcome."

WEED KILLERS TO GATHER FOR NEW ATTACKS ON FARMERS' FOE

A wide-open war on weeds will be touched off at a weed-control conference in Vancouver Nov. 27 and 28.

Canadian farmers are mad at the pesky weed which robs them of $186,000,000 every year, and federal and provincial government officials are gathering to plot new strategy against the agriculturist's common enemy.

Norman Putnam, provincial field crops commissioner, will be chairman of the conference.

"There will be considerable discussion on chemical weed killers—our new weapon in the fight," said Putnam. "The chemicals seem to have brought a certain amount of glamour into this weed-killing business."

Representatives of the four western provinces will attend the parley, which will be followed Nov. 29 by a meeting of the National Weed Committee.

SKILLINGS PRODS POLICE

Racial Discrimination At Force Ball Charged

Ald. Waldo Skillings at City Council meeting Tuesday night charged racial discrimination by the Victoria Police Mutual Benefit Association at its annual ball.

He protested that a young Chinese couple had been refused tickets for the ball held Nov. 2 at the Empress Hotel.

"I feel Mr. Mayor, that while the police can run their own social affairs as they see fit, it is a concern of this council if such race prejudice exists in a branch of the city service," Skillings said. "It is inconceivable that such an attitude is condoned by a majority of our police force."

He asked the mayor to take it up with the association.

"That society is a private institution," said Mayor Percy George. "Neither council nor commission have any control over it whatsoever."

Ald Skillings said the couple went to the ball last year but were denied tickets this year.

The mayor said last year they went as his guests.

Members of the police force today indicated that ticket sellers do not sell tickets to Chinese or solicit funds from Chinese for the annual formal ball. This would also apply to Negroes and East Indians.

The police ball ticket states in small print at the bottom: "The association reserves the right of admission." The association, registered under the Societies Act, can make its own rules.

One comment at the police station was: "We've got to draw the line somewhere."

Capt. Grey Russell, president of the Firemen's Mutual Benefit Association, said that the firemen's ball has not encountered a situation of this kind. He said anyone who buys a ticket would be admitted provided they were properly dressed.

The fair will get under way at 7.30.

Entry And Theft Charges Remanded

Edward J. Minnie, 22, of 816 Mason Street, was remanded in city police court today to Friday for judgment on a charge of shopbreaking and theft.

He is one of three young men charged with breaking into and robbing Jack's Auto Radio Shop, 773 Pandora, of seven radios on or about Nov. 9.

Eric A. Robb, 31 South Turner, and Stanley D. Turner, 1325 Lang, charged similarly, have been remanded to Friday for sentence. They pleaded guilty to the charge.

Minnie, who pleaded not guilty, produced witnesses who testified he was not at the scene at the time Crown witnesses Robb and Turner said the crime occurred. Evidence of Turner was that Robb and Minnie were both with him at the time. Robb testified that Turner was at the scene, but not Minnie.

Vote Set On Council Cut

Plan Reduction From 10 To 8 By '54; Only Property Owners To Cast Ballot

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

City property-owners will vote on a plebiscite Dec. 13 designed to allow reduction of City Council from 10 to eight members.

Ald. Robert Macmillan, whose campaign for a reduced council fired public interest, introduced a motion for a plebiscite at the Dec. 13 election on reduction of aldermen from 10 to eight.

Ald. William Pinfold moved an amendment which carried unanimously and provided for a plebiscite on progressive reduction of council.

His move paved the way for quicker reduction than the Macmillan motion—and the only one proper under the Municipal Act, Mayor Percy George and City Solicitor Arthur Patton told council.

If the electorate approves four aldermen instead of five will be elected in 1952 to serve for the years 1953 and 1954, and four instead of five will be elected in 1953 to serve for the years 1954 and 1955.

"Everyone knows my stand," said Ald. Pinfold. "I'm not going to rehash it. I was in favor of the '49 campaign for a city manager.

"On August 14 of this year, Mr. Wyatt (Cecil Wyatt, city manager) was opposed to reduction at that time. Note, at that time. I have been in discussion with the manager for the past two months and he is now in favor of progressive reduction over the next three years."

Prior to the Pinfold amendment, Ald. Arthur Dowell claimed reduction was brought up at a time when it could be "a political issue and election bait."

Mooney Would Add Two Aldermen

Ald. Millard Mooney said he would recommend an increase to 12.

His statement was greeted with "boos." A heckler called out. Said the mayor: "I'll have that gentleman ejected very quickly." Mooney referred to corruption in U.S. city politics and a woman stormed out of the chamber.

Ald. Waldo Skillings said he brought up a council reduction referendum in 1950 but was not supported.

"I feel much work can be left to competent department heads—and I underline that—a situation which, in my humble opinion, we do not have here," said Skillings.

"However, I think Wyatt will bring representation to council with reorganization in mind."

Ald. Aubrey Kent, who supported Macmillan's motion for reduction to eight, at first termed the amendment "pussy-footing," but following explanation of mechanics said: "You've convinced me."

Ald. Macmillan in introducing his motion read a letter written by the mayor in Nov., 1949, recommending consideration of a reduced council should a city manager be appointed.

"You ask for reason," Macmillan told council. "Council made more than half a promise it would reduce; cost of each alderman to the city is $1,700 a year; there are too many fingers in the pie.

"If the time is too great for any alderman to spend, he should resign here and now."

"I'm just completing my second year on council and today I have already spent nine hours and 20 minutes on city business and I'm not through yet," said Ald. Percy Scurrah.

He felt the city manager was "hamstrung" by a Municipal Act which compelled every expenditure over $50 to be brought to and decided by council. Cost of the aldermen, he said, was infinitesimal.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Take Your Pick—But Think Before You Buy Produce

By PENNY SAVER

One—two—three—four—five—six!

Yup! Six cents was just about the lowest priced vegetables, per pound, that I could find on the counter this morning.

Turnips are six pennies a pound, also white cabbage.

The prices run all over the scale, some reasonable, some outrageous. Careful budgeting will see you through, though. Give each meal thought and keep them inviting and tasty.

Cauliflower can be made interesting to serve with other vegetables. A cheese sauce simply can't be beat. Price for cauliflower at the moment is 25 pennies each.

Nearly everyone likes Brussels sprouts. They are selling at 19 cents a pound.

How about savoy cabbage? Not everyone likes it, but it is always tasty for a change. They are charging 16 cents a head for it right now.

Your dinner plate always looks bright and appetizing when you serve carrots. Two pounds will cost you a quarter.

Cooking onions are selling at three pounds for 21 pennies and sweet potatoes are priced at 18 cents a pound.

Lettuce, now selling at 19 cents each, is very high and will remain so for two or three weeks.

The first California celery arrived in town today, but it is higher than the local.

Potatoes from Idaho in 10-pound mesh bags were also due today. Oranges and grapefruit are on the market in mesh bags.

Japanese oranges will not be in until next week and will be a little higher than last year.

Grapes are just about the cheapest thing you can buy in the fruit line. Emperor grapes are selling for 15 pennies a pound.

Florida grapefruit, both pink and white, are plentiful and cheaper.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Wife Can Reduce And Feed Husband Well At Same Time

Many women procrastinate about losing weight because they have husbands who don't need to reduce, don't want to, or would scream to high heaven if the fattening foods were left off their menus. Men want to get rid of the bay window but few of them will give up their french fries, gravy, beer and apple pie a la mode in order to do so, once they accumulate overweight.

The woman may also have children who need a lot of calories. So the whole thing may seem too complicated and too expensive; planning two sets of meals. Actually you can use the same grocery list, with only a few changes in preparation and a few additional items and lose weight yourself while your husband holds his or even gains.

For instance you can eat your potato baked rather than stuffed—use skimmed milk instead of cream on your oatmeal—leave the jelly off your toast—take clear soup but add cream to his—eat one slice of meat loaf instead of two—leave off the gingerbread with whipped cream—use reducers salad dressing instead of regular dressing—drink skim milk instead of whole milk—leave off chicken dressing, eat your apple raw instead of baked—boil or poach your eggs and fry his.

On and on it goes. The preparation as well as the trimmings count up to that great big difference.

If your husband also wishes to lose weight you can use menus for him similar to yours (leaving off the very rich, greasy foods) but give him larger helpings, two eggs instead of one, more slices of bread, and some of the heavier calorie foods. A man, because of his greater stature requires more food than a woman, even when he is reducing.

I have prepared a week's menus for the woman who wishes to lose weight but does not want to plan two sets of meals. The daily calorie intake is counted for you—both his and hers. If you would like to have it send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 44 "Mr. and Mrs. Diet." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mission Vacation Schools Described at Board Meeting

Work done during summer months by her husband and herself in connection with vacation schools on northern Vancouver Island and adjacent points, was described by Mrs. F. Paddon at board meeting of the Anglican Diocesan Women's Auxiliary.

Eighteen workers, in teams of two, worked through the Columbia Coast Mission to give religious instruction to 200 children of loggers and others, Mrs. Paddon said.

Mrs. J. Noel, auxiliary chairman of Comox Deanery, gave a graphic description of travel difficulties in visiting Whaletown, Cortez Island, where a new clinic building was dedicated early this month. Later she visited Manson's Landing, Blind Creek and Lund, to organize new branches of the auxiliary.

Members were welcomed to the meeting in St. Paul's Hall, Esquimalt by Mrs. Fred Wilson, St. Paul's W.A. president; Mrs. R. A. Narracott and Mrs. George Hammond took devotionals; Rev. A. E. Hend Hendy, the prayers.

Receipts for the month of $616.56 were reported by Mrs. F. A. Goodwin; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. B. P. Harding said bales had been sent to Prince Albert, Saskatoon and Vanderhoof. She asked for ping pong sets for the Alert Bay school.

Other reports were given by Mrs. H. G. Horth, girls' secretary; Mrs. W. Lowery, junior secretary; Mrs. R. H. Flint, social service; Mrs. E. J. Harris, Little Helpers.

Next board meeting will be a morning session only in St. Barnabas Hall on Dec. 14.

'Imported' Labor Worry In Vancouver

Mass Unemployment Poses Possibility

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP)—The City Council wrestled with the problem of "imported labor," Tuesday.

Fear of mass unemployment in Vancouver—similar to the rough winter of 1949—has brought council action.

First, the Federal government will be asked to explain its immigration policy. Then, an investigation into the efect of the policy on the job market here will be made.

Mainly from European countries, 9,649 immigrants have come to British Columbia so far this year. Other hundreds are slated to come.

Recently, 200-odd German immigrants reached Vancouver. Most of them are still jobless, waiting for jobs to develop on northern projects.

"Things are getting tough in Vancouver, no fooling," Mayor Fred Hume told council.

"I have as many as 10 people in every day looking for work and I don't know where to send them."

On Oct. 25 there were 12,604 persons registered with the National Employment Service in Vancouver and only 1,025 unfilled jobs.

Council plans to set up a four-man committee to study the immigration problem and to plan for job placements.

"We've got to act now," Alderman R. K. Gervin said. "We're facing a very vital question of employment."

A winter of heavy snow or icy weather would aggravate the situation.

Two years ago an abnormal winter caused mills and logging operations to halt. Thousands of workers flocked into Vancouver and at the peak more than 35,000 were unemployed.

Alderman Birt Showler found that there was a language bar in the labor market.

Art Centre Has First Display

It was a new experience! It was a stimulating and thrilling one for this reporter and for the dozens of people who moved through the spacious, well-lit rooms of the new Arts Centre premises on Tuesday.

The Spencer home, at 1040 Moss, was entering unofficially upon its new career as a full-fledged art gallery and centre for all the major arts, with an exhibition of contemporary Quebec paintings.

Though adaptation has only begun, Colin Graham, the curator, and an Arts Centre committee, have worked hard to achieve an exciting suggestion of what is to be expected when the official opening takes place at a later date.

The lofty, panelled entrance hall has been given over to a loan collection of historically interesting and valuable oil paintings. There is a striking portrait of Charles II by Sir Peter Lely. Another splendid character study that held attention was Baron Francois Gerard's imaginary portrait of a Roman general. This painting is said to have made Gerard famous.

Mark Kearley, who was one of the prime movers in the founding of the Arts Centre in Victoria, is living in Switzerland now, but he was represented by fine paintings which he has presented to the new gallery.

Three inner rooms were devoted to the work of the Quebec painters and it is like taking a single giant step through time to move from the hall into the first of these rooms.

The Quebec artists are a live, adventurous coterie who have broken sharply away from the traditions of the Group of Seven and are following earnestly along paths indicated before them by Matisse and his disciples and others of the School of Paris.

Phases of cubism, expressionism, abstraction and non-representational lyricism are to be found, and without worrying too much about such terminology, to be studied for sheer interest and aesthetic values.

Inevitably, there are some things one will like and others that will leave little, or even an adverse impression on the individual viewer. For my own part, I found Ghitta Caiserman's "Open Window" an extraordinarily interesting study in depths "Composition No. 1" was appealing for its movement, color and simplicity of treatment.

For those who find themselves at odds with modern painting, I recommend a visit to the gallery on Friday at 2.30. It is said that to understand all is to forgive all, and at that time curator Graham will personally conduct a tour of the exhibition, making a commentary on the pictures and answering questions.

Mr. Graham does not undertake to cover the whole complex subject in the course of a single tour, but is planning to take time out for similar tours, possibly twice a week. The value of this service by the curator to patrons of the gallery cannot be over-estimated.

Death Close When Boys Explode Bomb

Death by a mortar bomb missed three William Head boys by inches.

In St. Joseph's Hospital with a badly mangled right hand—which may have to be amputated—is Victor Rowe, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rowe, William Head Road.

Two badly frightened little boys, Victor's seven-year-old brother, Gordon, and a playmate, Roland Sudhues, will never touch another mortar bomb or anything that looks like it.

The bomb was probably mislaid during wartime mortar practise by Army personnel. The boys found it. They tried throwing it on the ground to see what would happen. Nothing happened.

They tried throwing it against a rock. It exploded. The tail fins mangled Victor's hand and flying pieces narrowly missed the smaller boys.

It was originally reported that Victor was hurt when handling a rynamite cap. R.C.M.P. investigation, however, disclosed the truth.

A general warning against handling any sort of ammunition has been issued by the police, supported by the Army. The stuff is dangerous!

Stock Market Fails To Hold Early Gains

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP).—Slightly weaker stock market support today toward the session's close eased prices from early gains. Industrials opened with mild support in continuation of yesterday's late rally.

Papers showed a majority of fractional advances to form the market's strongest section. Agricultures and liquors held firmly to early increases while constructions, banks and textiles showed gains and losses in balance.

Western oils drifted steadily lower. American Leduc, Calmont, Del Rio, Flank Petroleum, Mid-Continent, Okalta and Scurry climbed pennies. Canada Southern Oil, Central Explorers, Canadian Collieries, Devon-Leduc, Selburn and Superior weakened.

Base metals drew mild support to partly recover early losses. Consolidated Smelters lost $3.50 while Hudson Bay and Noranda slipped fractions. Estella, Eureka, Falconbridge, New Calumet, Quebec Manitou and Geneva pushed higher.

Senior golds posted four slight gains against three losses. Juniors weakened.

Lumbers Improve

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21—Trade was again dull although there was some sign of a revival in stocks that have recently been under the weather.

Canadian Western Lumber gained 50 cents at 11, while MacMillan and Bloedel also advanced a similar amount to 25.

Some oils were better. Calvan jumped 15 cents at 5.90, and Continental was up 3 cents at .68. Pacific gained a fraction at 10⅞. Canadian Atlantic was 7.05, off 5 cents.

Best features in mines were Estella, up 10 cents at 2.10; Bralorne, up 15 cents at 6.15, and International Coal, up 5 cents at 1.00.

Smelters Decline

MONTREAL—Nov. 21 (CP)—Mild forenoon support faded slightly near the close today and stock prices drifted irregularly lower.

Senior metals led the downtrend. Senior oils and miscellaneous industrials were slightly easier. Beverages and carriers were shaded.

Banks continued mixed. Papers were firmer from the opening, while utilities and steels received fair support.

Consolidated Smelters, which dropped three points yesterday, tumbled four points to 165½. Canadian Celanese was off one point at 46.

Mines and western oils were hesitant. Trading was the dullest in sereval weeks, with the majority of the penny changes on the down side. Celta was unchanged and United Asbestos down slightly in fair trading.

Canadians Higher

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP).—An irregular course was traced today with trading exceptionally quiet.

After a higher start the market in the afternoon eased off in various areas until it presented a thoroughly mixed appearance.

The market put its best foot forward in some of the rails, steels, motors, and radio-television issues. The comparison, however, was a matter of degree.

Northern Pacific, which gets a lot of revenue from its oil holdings, did better than most rail and oil leaders. Goodrich and American Cyanamid both suffered from selling following dividend announcements.

Twentieth Century-Fox sagged.

Canadian issues were mostly higher. Canadian Pacific and Dome Mines were both up ⅛. Hiram Walker advanced ⅜ and Distillers Seagram gained ⅝. International Nickel was off ⅛.

On the curb, Lake Shore advanced ¼. Royalite Oil was up ⅛ and Giant Yellowknife dropped ⅛.

OGILVIE FLOUR PROFITS

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Ltd., reports net profit of $1,147,727 for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1951, compared with $784,619 for the previous fiscal year.

Net profit a common share was $1.67, against $1.07 last year.

Net working capital was $8,836,016, compared with $9,017,115, the reduction partly reflecting the payment of $500,000 on series A serial debentures.

RHINE IS SINKING

BONN, Germany (Reuters)—The Rhine, western Europe's international waterway, is sinking. In some parts the water level this winter is so low that the bigger barges cannot take their full load of 700 tons.

SAVINGS, BORROWINGS UP

Bank Of Nova Scotia Reports Record Year

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

The expansion of Canadian industry and capital is shown by the annual report issued today of the Bank of Nova Scotia. This old-established banking institution announces proudly that its assets have reached a new high of over $874,000,000, an increase of nearly 7 per cent on the previous year.

Young

The Bank of Nova Scotia, which terminates its financial year on Oct 31, is the first of the Canadian chartered banks to issue its report, and in view of higher dividends which have already been declared by some other such institutions, the record-breaking achievements of the Nova Scotia may conceivably be repeated elsewhere.

The Bank of Nova Scotia during the year has increased its capital by the issue of 300,000 new shares of $10 par. These have been fully subscribed and the new authorized and subscribed capital is now $15,000,000.

Other points from the report show that savings and demand deposits by the public have increased by $54,770,000—an expansion of nearly 7 per cent.

Even loans, which have been restricted for non-essential purposes are sharply higher, and the bank records that its net profit is $3,604,727 compared with $3,214,567 in the previous year.

The present uncertain state of the equity stock market is caused by declining profits, unsettled international outlook, increased taxation and higher general costs of operation.

During the past few weeks many of the higher class stocks, and particularly those which are conservative dividend payers, have declined sharply enough to cause concern to those who are attempting to follow a strict investment portfolio.

In a statement on the position, Dominion Securities Corporation Ltd. suggests to its clients that in a properly drawn up portfolio the long view must be taken to secure best results.

The Corporation considers that the present market decline from unusually high levels reached last month, are purely short-term considerations which should not distract the investor from his longer term plans.

"No one expects the economy to continue to operate indefinitely at current high levels but it would appear that the next recession in business is not expected until early in 1953 . . . If this recession does develop it is conceivable that it need not be as extensive or disastrous as that of the early thirties, due to government intervention which is bound to be asserted."

Delivery of ore from the Indian Mines (1946) Ltd. to the Silbak Premier mill in the Portland Canal area begins at the end of this month. The Indian company states it has spent about $115,000 on capital costs and will have approximately $70,000 in working capital.

The directors consider these funds to be adequate. There are 2,720,000 shares outstanding and 280,000 in the treasury.

At the meeting J. H. Forester, H. G. Perry, T. E. Blossom, G. E. Burdick, H. H. Hemsworth and Roderick McLennan were elected to the board.

Further export of British Columbia iron ore to Japan is anticipated by Stanley Brewer, assistant professor at the University of Washington.

In an article in Marine Digest, he states that the new developments of Texada Island ore deposits are aimed at the Japanese market. It is believed that C. T. Takahashi Co., which is exporting the Quinsam iron ore on Vancouver Island is also interested in the Texada Island deposits.

It is also reported that in October, 54,000 tons of ore was shipped to Japan from the ore wharf at Campbell River.

New Oil Issue Oversubscribed

The offering of 1,250,000 common shares of Western Leaseholds, an oil company with interests in approximately 2,163,000 acres in western Canada, has been heavily oversubscribed.

The shares were offered at $10 a share. A. E. Ames and Co. and Mills, Spence and Co. Ltd. underwrote the issue.

The Canadian underwriters have offered 625,000 shares for sale other than in the United States, while 600,000 shares have been sold by United States underwriters.

Western Leaseholds has an interest in 125 producing wells, with a full interest in 63. Most of the wells are in the Redwater and Leduc areas.

Imperial Plans Huge Expenditure

Imperial Oil announced that it is undertaking the biggest expansion and exploration program in its history. Capital expenditure in the last four months of 1951, and in the full year of 1952 will be $120,000,000.

Fifty per cent of the budget is earmarked for the acquisition of new acreage and for exploration and production facilities.

Sapphire Offset Gives Gas And Oil On Initial Test

By C. V. MYERS

Canadian Merrill Asher Cavanaugh No. 1, offsetting Sapphire producer in Cavanaugh area of Leduc, tested 5238 to 5270 feet.

With the valve open one hour the well yielded gas in 10 minutes at the rate of 140,000 cubic feet per day and a recovery of 145 feet of fluid of which 130 feet was oil and gas-cut mud and 15 feet was gassy oil. Officials said this test compared favorably with similar tests in the Sapphire wells. The well is coring further.

Trans-Empire announced success at its Roxboro Trans-Empire Campbell No. 1 about two miles west and half a mile north from the Campbell Pol. Drill stem test at 3,730-50 feet gave gas in 14 minutes at maximum of 225,000 cubic feet and a rise of 570 feet of oil. Officials said the well appeared to be the equivalent of the first of the Campbell wells.

The well is being drilled by Roxboro on farm-out from Trans-Empire on a Trans-Empire half-section. The team will develop the remainder of the holdings on a 50-50 basis. The well will go on to test all of the cretaceous sands to the D-1 contact, and then complete.

The new Trans-Empire well is one and three-quarter miles north of Imperial Sturgeon No. 1. Officials said the well appeared to indicate a considerable extension to the Campbell sands.

Imperial Oil has staked four more drilling ventures, including two wildcats. Imperial Lost Point will go down about 10 miles west of Redwater and five miles northeast of the Excelsior field. Volmer No. 9-20 has been staked about six miles northwest of the Campbell field. Imperial Golden Spike No. 13 will go down a half-mile west of the discovery well.

In the Peace River area, Imperial and Hudson's Bay will jointly drill the second follow-up to the Imperial Belloy No. 2 gas and heavy crude discovery. Imperial-Hudson's Bay Belloy will go down two miles west of the discovery.

There were several traps and pitfalls in the hand shown today, but South managed to thread his way safely through all of them. If South had been less expert at managing the play, perhaps his partner would have been less aggressive in the bidding.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East then returned the four of hearts—not the best defense.

South carefully took this trick in his own hand with the queen of hearts in order to try the spade finesse at once. When that succeeded he cashed the ace of spades and led a third round of spades from the dummy.

East hopefully stuck in the ten of hearts, but South did not make the mistake of over-ruffing. Instead he discarded a diamond.

East had to return a diamond, making dummy ruff with the king of hearts. Declarer could now safely ruff a fourth round of spades, cash the ace of hearts, and give up a heart trick to West's jack. Nothing could prevent declarer from reaching dummy with the ace of clubs in time to discard the remaining club on the last spade.

Neatly played by South, to be sure, but not the best defense. If East returns a diamond at the second trick, it is all misery and floundering for poor South.

Declarer must ruff the second diamond in the dummy. What next? The best shot is to try for an extra spade trick by laying down the ace and then the queen of spades. (South would do better if he started the clubs, but he cannot know that.)

West takes the king of spades and returns a club. If declarer tries a club finesse, East wins and returns a diamond to make dummy ruff with the king. That sets up a trump trick for West as the fourth defensive trick.

Nor does it help declarer to go up with dummy's ace of clubs. He must then try to cash the jack of spades, but East ruffs with the ten of hearts and the jig is up.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

Lots of curious and queer things have been dug up in Vancouver's Stanley Park. Back in 1924, two early morning visitors dug up $84,000! How it got there is the story of B.C. Superintendent Walter Owen's continent-wide hunt for Smiling Johnny Reid.

Hear this story of buried loot and a bank robber's effort to go straight, Thursday evening on CBR at 10.15.

* * *

There's $1,000 in the offing on CJVI's new give-away show, Christmas Stocking.

First prize on the show will be $500, second prize will be $200, and there will be 12 prizes of $25 each. Winning is a simple matter of sending in the names of the advertisers heard on the show each day, and then waiting until Dec. 22, when 14 names will be drawn out of the barrel.

Christmas Stocking can be heard Monday through Friday from 3.30 to 4.30.

* * *

Blind pianist Alec Templeton can be heard Friday on the Toronto Symphony Orchestra program on CBR at 10.30. He will play two of his satirical compositions—one of them a take-off on Mozart. Templeton's blindness is partly offset by his amazing aurel sense and his remarkable memory.

He is said to have learned Beethoven's Emperor Concerto in eight hours from a recording. For radio and concert work, he and his manager have devised an ingenious system of signals. The manager sits beside him and passes the cues on by pressing the back. Various signals indicate whether Templeton is over or under the allotted time; only rarely is it necessary for a whispered cue to be passed.

TONIGHT . . . Red Skelton on KIRO at 6; NBC String Quartette on CBR at 6.30; Big Story on KOMO at 7; Hollywood Stars on Stage at 7.30; Family Theatre on KVI at 8.30; The Cossack Beyond the Danube on CBR at 9.

Sioux Carries Off Honors In Naval Gunnery

ABOARD CANADIAN DESTROYER SIOUX, (CP).—This Canadian destroyer is showing its class in naval gunnery in competition with other ships of the United Nations fleet in Korean waters.

In recent exercises, the Sioux defeated the British carrier Glory, the British cruiser Belfast, the Australian frigate Anzac and her sister destroyer, the Athabaskan.

Sioux gunner A. B. Roy V. Wellburn of Ladner, B.C., was the man behind the Bofors when Sioux shot down a radio-controlled miniature plane on its fourth run over the ship in a contest with the Belfast. The cruiser made six unsuccessful tries.

In company with the carrier Glory and the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan, the Sioux's Bofors were first to shoot down a target being towed by a plane. In the third shoot with H.M.A.S. Anzac she shot down the target on the first try, tieing with Anzac. Then she broke the tie by shooting it down again on the second next pass.

Tar Sands Study Started In 1913 By Ottawa Expert

EDMONTON (CP)—Dr. Sidney Clarke Ells of Ottawa has probably done more than any other to bring the Athabasca oil sands into prominence—but now he's content to take a back seat.

Passing through Edmonton on his way to the west coast, he sat in on the Alberta oil sands conference recently. The 100-odd experts attending asked him to speak but he declined.

The sands straddle the Athabaska River in northern Alberta. They are vast deposits of a heavy, thick oil mixed with gravel, clay and sand, and are considered by many the world's largest known reserve of oil.

Yet untapped, the sands have been experimented with for years to find an economical method of separating the oil and sand mixture.

S. M. Blair, Toronto petroleum engineer, presented a report in January of this year which served to back up claims Dr. Ells made years ago that commercial development was possible.

Dr. Ells' interest in the oil sands dates back to 1913. Then he was assistant to the director of the federal mines branch.

An Alberta real-estate boom started it all. Slick operators were selling subdivided parts of Alberta as far north as the muskeg around Fort McMurray.

SUGGESTED SURVEY

Ells was instructed to read up on the tar sands. But there was nothing to read. Ells suggested a personal survey. When the department decided against the survey, Dr. Ells handed in his resignation.

Officials reconsidered, and in May, 1913, he began his survey with an allotment of $1,900.

Dr. Ells, a crew of four men, a leaky scow, and a canoe, shot rapids, traversed Athabasca River tributaries to the east and west, and explored the total extent of the oil sands.

In the fall, they returned upriver to Athabasca Landing with a 10-ton load of samples—the first important specimens ever taken from the field.

As far back as 1914, Dr. Ells was beginning to plan core drilling and mining, and was thinking of hot water flotation as a method of separating oil from the sands.

With the passing years, he began to make headway. Interested parties in the United States and Britain started eying the oil sands.

In 1943-1945 Dr. Ells initiated and supervised the first large-scale drilling program and was the first to interest foreign capital in the deposits.

Now over 70, Dr. Ells has been retired six years and devotes his time to writing and gardening. But he says the 30 years he spent in the oil sand country probably "advanced the production date 10 years".

South Africa Tightening Bi-Lingual Law

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Strict application of South Africa's language laws and regulations by Prime Minister Daniel Malan's nationalist government has blocked promotion to civil servants who are not competent in both of the country's official languages—Afrikaans and English.

While there have been cases of Afrikaaners losing promotion because they are not bilingual, the English-speaking officials in South Africa's extensive civil service have been the hardest hit.

Their case is being taken up by opposition politicians and newspapers who allege that language tests are being operated unfairly in the civil service, that a "Gestapo" atmosphere is being created and that political pull counts for more than service and ability.

All these allegations have been denied by Dr. Malan and his ministers. They point out that the South African constitution required every civil servant to be fully bilingual and say they are only carrying out the law.

The language issue, Dr. Malan told the South African parliament, was being exploited by the United Party opposition for political purposes.

"I have said before that if an injustice is done to English-speaking people or to their language, I would like to be the first to see to it with all the power at my command that justice is done to them."

France Constructs Vast Chain Of Army Airports

METZ, France (Reuters) — France, whose military airfields were almost totally destroyed by both sides during the Second World War, will have a network of military airports by the end of this year suitable for any known type of aircraft, including the latest atom-bomb carriers being tested in the United States.

Shortly after General Dwight Eisenhower established his supreme headquarters for the integrated anti-Communist defense army of Europe, his air experts began to cope with the problem arising from the fact that existing airfields were woefully inadequate for the latest long-range bombers and jet fighters.

The French defense ministry hastily decided on emergency construction of up-to-date airfields and French engineers and contractors scoured Europe for the best machines to lay concrete and bitumen in the shortest possible time.

For security reasons the number of air fields has not been disclosed. But at Metz, three German machines moving on rails laid strips of concrete 400 feet long and 80 feet wide. Smaller machines smoothed and flattened subsidiary runways and dispersal points. In 100 days, a team of 500 workmen had laid two concrete runways, each about 1½ miles long, together with drains, electric cables and runway approaches.

Before they started spreading the concrete, engineers had to remove 380,000 cubic metres of earth from the runway area. Soggy, clayish soil and heavy rain hampered them, but they finished the job on time.

Airfield construction in 1951 needs different techniques from the hastily and relatively easily-built emergency landing strips built during the war. Then, Allied engineers merely laid down a carpet of metal screen. These emergency strips are still in use all over France for propeller-driven aircraft.

But Jet aircraft cannot land safely on them because most strips are too short. Moreover, excessive heat from the Jet exhausts would buckle the metal strips. It even cracks bitumen, so that expensive concrete has to be used throughout the length of the runway, or at least at both ends, where the engines warm up before taking off.

Jet runways have to be kept almost surgically clean for the Jets suck in any loose stones., earth or other objects within range.

New Atlas Shows Oil Pipeline

LONDON, Nov. 2 (CP).—Canada's new oil pipeline from Edmonton to Lake Superior is shown in a new world atlas just published here. So are new towns in remote parts of Russia and results of recent Arctic exploration.

But population figures for British cities are 20 years out of date. The atlas went to press just before the results of this year's census came out.

Published by Oxford University Press, the atlas was produced by a team of wartime map-makers who started from scratch five years ago to build what they hoped would be the first really new world atlas in 50 years.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Great big Buster Bear is not only one of the biggest Green Forest folk, one whom nearly every one is afraid of because of his great size, his strength, his big claws and big teeth, but he is also discreet. Discretion is a form of wisdom.

In the moonlight on the shore of Paddy the Beaver's pond in the Green Forest, Buster Bear stood face to face with Flathorns the Moose. Buster had arrived there first and because of this he felt that no one else had any business there that would interfere with his own affairs. Now someone else, another Mr. Big, had come out from among the Black Shadows. It was Flathorns the Moose. He was not only the biggest of all the deer folk, but biggest of all the folks in the Green Forest. Flathorns is one of the very few Green Forest folks not afraid of Buster Bear.

Buster Bear growled. Flathorns pawed the ground a little harder than ever and snorted. Mrs. Lightfoot and her twins, watching and listening from among the Black Shadows at the foot of the pond, held their breath and had a shivery feeling all over.

"Go away," growled Buster Bear, "go back in the woods where you belong."

"Who'll make me?" snorted Flathorns, and pawed the ground again.

"I will," growled Buster Bear, and raised his lips to show his big white teeth.

"You and who else? It will take more than you alone to make me do anything I don't want to do. I don't want to go back, and I'm not going. I belong here as much as you do and here I'm going to stay for as long as I choose!" snorted the great Moose. He dipped his head a little lower so as better to show Buster Bear the many points on the edges of these great flat antlers.

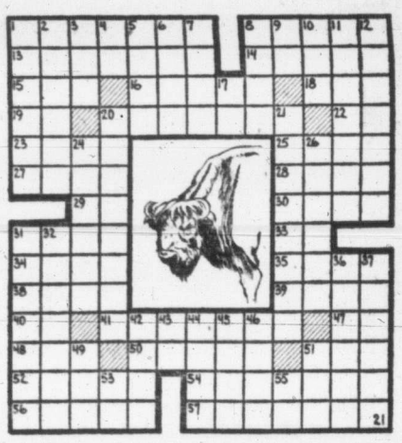

For just a moment Buster Bear stood on his hind feet. Then he looked bigger than ever; perhaps that is why he stood up. He dropped back on all fours and instead of growling he snarled.

Buster didn't like the looks of either these hoofs or these great antlers. In short, he didn't like anything he saw about Flathorns. He edged back a little. He tried to do it in a way that Flathorns would not notice. Flathorns dropped back onto all four feet, lowered his head and acted as if he were about to charge.

Buster seemed suddenly to have remembered something back in among the trees. He turned and shuffled off in that direction. He was being discreet. The truth is, he didn't want to fight. On the other hand, Flathorns the Moose did want to fight. This made all the difference in the world.

Integration Of R.C. Schools With Public Draws Approval

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP) — The proposed integration of Roman Catholic schools into the public school system drew support from two sources Tuesday.

Archbishop William Duke, head of British Columbia Roman Catholics, said today he was "pleased" with statements that mooted the incorporation.

Additional support came from the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Statements from Education Minister W. T. Straith and Reg. Paxton, secretary of the B.C. Roman Catholic Education Association, during the week-end hinted at the end to the long dispute about separate schools.

Paxton said the Roman Catholics were willing to integrate and Mr. Straith said the proposal merited discussion.

The Archbishop indicated he looked forward to "future negotiations" between the Roman Catholic Association and the Department of Education.

Charles Ovans, general secretary of B.C. Teachers' Federation, said the federation generally opposes separate schools.

"If the Roman Catholics can make some arrangements for religious instruction after school hours, I don't suppose the teachers would have any grounds for objecting."

Colquitz Bridge Open To Traffic

Steel and concrete bridge over Colquitz Creek on Interurban Road is now open to traffic, Saanich public works department has announced.

The creek bed is being widened and deepened near the bridge as part of the Saanich drainage scheme, and is expected to ease perennial winter flooding in the Marigold district.

Island Wolves Becoming Bold; Hunt Planned

LADYSMITH — Timber wolves in the mountainous area behind Ladysmith are getting too numerous and too bold to be ignored.

When a number of members reported at the last meeting of the Ladysmith and District Fish and Game Club of finding numerous signs and a number of wolf kills, Norman Voigt was named chairman to organize a hunt.

It will be held as soon as snow conditions are ideal for tracking and hunting. There have been light falls recently, but the snow has not lasted.

The shy but savage predators have moved into the area extending from the Barnaby Swamps northwest of Nanaimo to behind Chemainus. Signs have been noted in the Majuba and Haslam Creek area and on Ziz-zag and Burnt Mountains.

Many Ladysmith hunters will take part in the hunt, and an invitation will be sent to Chemainus Rod and Gun Club.

Two Aldermen Quit To Run Mayor's Race

City Council got "reduced" in more ways than one Tuesday night.

It started out with 10 aldermen and wound up with eight. Ald. Aubrey Kent and Ald. J. D. Hunter, both resigned their seats in order to run for the mayoralty December 13.

They may tangle in future on the political platform but they wound up their aldermanic careers in an aura of good-fellowship. Both paid tribute to Mayor Percy George and said whoever followed him would find it difficult to "maintain his high standard".

"I am leaving here, perhaps for the last time, but I hope not," said Ald. Hunter with a smile.

"I regret having to sacrifice the next few meetings," said Ald. Kent.

From now on its Aubrey Kent and Dr. J. D. Hunter.

Poet Gets Scooped

I do my best thinking when I go to bed, sprawled on my back . . . hands under my head. Thots like snowflakes flutter in me, & various inventions, often I see.

Like a while ago, I was filled with zeal, there came to my thot, a giant ferris wheel. A colossal affair, with sturdy steel bars, which could be used for parking cars. The idea was clear, I had no doubt, so easy for cars, to get in, and out. Something I know, just HAS to be done, in ALL cities . . . it is Problem One. We MUST somehow get outa these ruts, a few people listened, but all thot me nuts. "'Twould be of aluminum," I did declare, "but wider, of course, than those at a Fair." "That would cost a fortune," another joked, "yeah . . . I KNOW . . . but our cities are choked. Till you think it's the end of the automobile, the answer I think, is my Ferris Wheel." No one would listen, thot me a half-wit, so NOW I see, someone beat me to-it. A Frenchman it is, it gave me a jar, the whole thing is pictured in the Toronto Star. This Frenchman who lives in gay Paree, yes . . . he got the same . . . idea as me. Only he went ahead, the deal to swing, a model he's got, and he built the thing.

This has happened before & it seems very strange, when a baby-buggy, I thot I'd change. Going down steps would be a breeze, I'd invent underneath, retractable skis. I stretched out the way I'd seen, then mailed it to, a big magazine. Well—the very next issue, what do you think, it made me stop, wonder & blink; a fellow in Chicago (it seemed a crime), HIS idea was the same as mine. It was pictured, too, a comic cartoon, "for a mother," it sed, "'twould be a great boon."

So, TWICE I've been scooped, yet odd it seems, that others get filled with the same sort of schemes. And stranger still, our thots do climb, theirs and mine, at the very same time. How to bat out a column, my NEW idea is bliss, but I'm gonna sit tight, they CAN'T scoop me on this. But if they do, I'll have NO re-butts, it can't be done, so I'll know THEY . . . ARE NUTS.

House Encroaches On Tree Council Told; So Tree Stays

Trees are a heavy responsibility of City Council.

Latest to be threatened and saved from the axe is an oak at 1923 Shakespeare. Town Planning Commission told Tuesday night's council meeting, if anything, the house encroached on the tree, rather than the tree on house.

The tree was there first, according to the commission, and they contended whoever bought the house knew that. The dwelling violated the zoning by-law and was within two feet of the property line, T.P.C. reported.

CBC Financing Plan Approved

Bill Granting National Network $6,250,000 In Each Of Next 5 Years Gets 2nd Reading

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (CP)—A new plan for financing operations of the publicly-owned CBC was approved in principle Tuesday by the Commons.

Members gave second reading to a bill authorizing a grant of $6,250,000 in each of the next five years to the financially-harrassed CBC. The measure, providing also for several amendments to the Canadian Broadcasting Act, was referred to the radio committee of the Commons for detailed study.

Revenue Minister McCann, who reports to parliament for the CBC, said the statutory grants along with revenues from license fees and commercial programs will provide the corporation with about $14,000,000 annually, or approximately $1 per capita of population.

That, he said, was the amount the Massey Commission on arts and sciences recommended the CBC have to conduct operations.

Although there was criticism of the financing plan at earlier stages—notably by Progressive Conservatives—the bill was given the second reading without a dissenting voice.

The day also brought these developments:

1. Final reading to a series of technical amendments to the National Defense Act after opposition members renewed a demand that the government provide auxiliary services for the troops in Korea and at least see that they get Canadian cigarettes.

2. Final reading to a bill setting out the status of North Atlantic Treaty Forces, including those of Canada, when they are in other lands.

3. Second reading to a bill permitting the banks to operate on a five-day week.

4. Second reading to a measure increasing to $2,400 from $1,200 the amount of government annuities an individual may buy.

At the House opening, Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government will pay as quickly as possible the claims of Canadians who suffered as a result of Japanese action during the last war.

Dr. McCann said the government has "no evidence" of the dumping of foreign textile goods in Canada.

Justice Minister Garson said a preliminary investigation has indicated there was no agreement among meat-packing companies to reduce hog prices last month.

In the CBC debate, Dr. McCann said some Progressive Conservative members appear to be in a "great hurry to see some private operators get television broadcasting licenses."

There are, he said, things "much more important than the establishment of monopoly positions of television channels by private interests, from which they might hope to make a good deal of money in the future."

He added:

"Far more important to this country is the building up of a television broadcasting system which will help to link the country together in a new way; which will use a large amount of Canadian talent; and which, by bringing in some material from outside the country, will be essentially a Canadian operation carried on in the national interests.

"Into this system I expect later it will be possible to fit private operations co-ordinated under the over-all system serving community interests and also acting as outlets for national program service."

Alistair Stewart (C.C.F.—Winnipeg North), approving the legislation, said some quarters blamed the CBC for keeping television out of Canada. If the private stations were allowed to have television rights, they would pipe in American programs. Program content on TV as well as radio must be predominantly Canadian.

Work of the Foundation is the subject of an article in the December issue of Coronet magazine, Goodenough said.

New Milk Increase Threatens

Dairymen Seeking Boost To Producer

Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association will apply to the B.C. Milk Board soon for an increase in price paid to producers, an association spokesman said today.

If the increase is granted, it will mean another boost in the retail price of milk on the island.

The producers will not ask for a specific increase, it was indicated. Most likely they will ask the board to grant an increase which it thinks will cover the increased cost of production.

The price paid to producers is now $5.90 per 100 pounds of milk. When this price was set by the board about three months ago, a three-cent increase in the price to consumers was necessitated.

Producers, not satisfied with the $5.90 price, appealed to the board to reconsider, but failed. Later, they made another application and again were refused.

FEED PRICES UP

Now, armed with further facts and figures on increased costs of production they are going after an increase again. Producers will use substantial increases in oats and dairy feed as one argument for a boost. The two have increased $13 and $17 a ton, respectively, since the milk board hearing here last August.

Meanwhile, at the association's annual meeting at Duncan Tuesday night, Henry G. Robinson, secretary, said dissolution of the milk board is expected next spring "without any action by us."

The meeting criticized what was termed "pollution" of Vancouver Island milk by Fraser Valley milk. An association director said a large percentage of Victoria and Duncan milk has a lot of four-day-old Fraser Valley milk in it.

A motion was passed calling for carrying out of tests. Details will be worked out later.

Henry has already spent a year at Letterham General Hospital in San Francisco undergoing treatment for a leg lost and and arm paralyzed during a Chinese counter-attack on a Korean hill in September, 1950.

Claxton Turns 27th Over To Eisenhower

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands, Nov. 21 (CP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took Canada's 27th Brigade under his wing today and welcomed its red-capped troops as a symbol of the fact that "Canada is with us in the area of danger."

Canada's Defense Minister, Brooke Claxton, turned the brigade over to the leader of the Atlantic Pact army in Europe in a brilliant ceremony in a cobbled square before Rotterdam's city hall. A crowd of 25,000 silent Netherlanders watched the ceremony.

As 1,200 Canadians, just off the ship from home, stood in a light drizzle, Eisenhower spoke with emphasis and conviction that he was proud and glad to meet Canadian infantry anywhere.

But, he said, every Allied soldier in Europe will welcome the brigade not only because of Canada's battle record but because the brigade's arrival means that "Canada is not only with us in the production and other fields but actually in the area where danger occurs."

The troops arriving today made up practically all of the 1st Canadian Infantry battalion. Previously an advance party had arrived to prepare for the main body of the brigade. A second contingent, made up of miscellaneous groups, arrived last week. A fourth contingent is at sea and a fifth group will leave Canada Monday.

The ceremony of handing over command was a spectacle of color and pomp enacted in this city where liberating Canadians marched in May, 1945, and where fine tall buildings now alternate with gaping wounds from the mass German bombing of 1940.

The Crowd Was Undemonstrative

There were few cheers from the people of this port city of 800,000 and they were mainly for Eisenhower as he inspected the troops and moved briskly along the lines of infantry and engineers drawn up in front of the ornate city hall. It was a far from unfriendly crowd, but it was undemonstrative.

Inevitably a few peace leaflets showed but that was the one sign of Communist sentiment.

The leaflets were thrown out of an office window as the troops marched off.

Eisenhower and Claxton struck home the point that Atlantic pact armies are being built not to make war, but to preserve peace that could only be preserved through strength.

Eisenhower, speaking from a platform heavy with top-hatted diplomats and red-braided military officers of a half dozen countries, addressed the Canadians as "fellow soldiers."

In reference to the spectacular red berets of the First Infantry Battalion, he said if anyone won the right to a beret of its own choice it was the Canadian infantry man.

The parade was commanded by Lt.-Col. J. E. L. Castonguay of Montreal, commanding officer of the infantry battalion.

The soldiers in battle dress stood a half-hour in fairly heavy rain before the ceremony began. Then the sun came out and hid behind the clouds again.

The soldiers looked smart as they marched off after a nine-day voyage from Quebec, which ended early this morning.

They left later by train for Hanover, Germany.

FINAL BULLETINS

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (CP).—Ottawa Rough Riders romped off to a 43-17 victory today over the never-quitting Sarnia Imperials in the eastern Canada football final and now will meet Saskatchewan Rough Riders in the Grey Cup game at Toronto Saturday.

Teachers' Body Voices Opposition

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP).—The British Columbia Teachers' Federation is unequivocally opposed to integration of Catholic schools into the public school system, a spokesman said here.

The B.C. Catholic Education Association had suggested a plan whereby Catholic schools would eventually become a part of the public system.

"We have been committed to something we haven't even had a chance to consider," Charles Ovans, B.C.T.F. general secretary, today commenting on a published report that his group favored the Catholic suggestion.

Lumberworkers Gear For Strike

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP).—Lumber workers geared themselves today for a strike of "any or all" of approximately 60 interior woodworking operations after midnight tonight.

Three thousand members of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.) will strike to enforce union demands for wage increases, cost-of-living bonus, union check-off, and other concessions.

Ask Crackdown On Bookies

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21 (AP).—The Louisiana Racing Commission today called for a crackdown on handbooks to protect attendance and revenue at the Fair Grounds race track which opens an 81-day meet Thursday.

The commission said if city and parish (county) officials fail to close down handbooks, it will ask Governor Earl Long to send state troopers here to enforce the law.

Profits from the Fair Grounds are turned over to the state-owned Charity Hospital.

U.S. Plans More Newsprint

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP).—The United States government approved an almost 50 per cent expansion of domestic newsprint production facilities. But officials said it may be some time before necessary materials can be made available.

The defense production administration, although approving the expansion, said that "more urgent defense projects" will have to get needed steel, copper and aluminum supplies before the newsprint plants can get their materials.

10,000 May Be Homeless

HONG KONG, Nov. 21 (Reuters).—At least 10,000 persons may be left homeless by a fire which raged through a squatters' colony in Kowloon today. Two thousand wooden huts were destroyed.

Suggest Lacrosse 'Rebellion'

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP).—Officials of the Vancouver Combines senior lacrosse team will recommend that all senior lacrosse teams rebel against the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

With memories of "Mann Cup madness" still fresh in their minds, officials of the Combines recommended Tuesday night that the Inter-City League withdraw from the association.

Romania Says Missing Plane Trespassed

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 21 (UP).—Communist Romania formally protested today that an "American military plane" presumably a missing U.S. air force transport with four men aboard —has violated its frontiers.

The protest was lodged with the U.S. legation in Bucharest at the same time 16 American planes took off from Treviso, Italy, on a search of the Adriatic and Yugoslavia for the missing C-47.

The twin-engine transport vanished two days ago while carrying supplies from Munich, Germany, to the U.S. embassy at Belgrade. The embassy announced Tuesday night that the plane's pilot had reported Hungarian and Romanian border guards opened fire on the aircraft after it lost its way.

Bucharest's note declared:

"The government of the Romanian Popular Republic considers the flight of an American military plane over Romanian territory to be a gross violation of its frontiers and of elementary principles of international law."

There was no doubt the note referred to the missing aircraft since the note said the violation took place on Monday, the same day the plane disappeared. Allied pilots customarily steer wide of the iron curtain on Balkan flights.

Navy Doctor Impostor May Face Deportation

Immigration Department officials here were awaiting instructions today regarding Ferdinand Waldo Demara, erstwhile Canadian Navy surgeon, who was due to be dishonorably discharged from the service this afternoon at H.M.C.S. Naden.

The department has opened an investigation as to how the mysterious American from Lawrence, Mass., got into Canada. If it is found he has no legal status in this country he will be deported to the United States.

They said it has been established that Demara entered Canada aboard a bus at St. Stephen, N.B., last March. He came as a tourist and made no application for permission to remain in Canada.

He has steadfastly refused to discuss his odd predicament.

He joined the navy as Dr. Joseph Cyr, aged 28, and as a surgeon-lieutenant established a fine reputation in Korean waters aboard H.M.C.S. Cayuga.

AGE UNCERTAIN

Dr. Joseph Cyr of Grand Falls, N.B., claims a man known to him as Cecil Hamann took his medical credentials last year, and that he is the man calling himself Lieut. Cyr.

Demara has also been identified as the man who posed as a Dr. French, instructor at St. Martin's College, Lacey, Wash., in 1947.

Even his age is not known. As "Cyr" he is 28; the man known as Hamann was 36. Demara refuses to throw any light whatsoever on the bizarre situation.

He went through his out-going barracks routine today, calling at medical, dental, paymaster, and other offices.

Speculation on his future action suggests a number of courses:

The navy itself has no charge against him, and Dr. Cyr, whom Demara impersonated for months, will not bring any action.

It was learned here that he had enquired in September about passage to England next year when at the same time he was a naval officer with no immediate prospect of leaving the service unless he was discovered as an imposter.

Newspapers and magazine writers have offered him respectable sums of money for his story, but his only answer to such messages was: "Sorry. No comment."

Canada Among Nations With Food Surplus

ROME, Nov. 21 (AP) — Only five countries in the non-Communist world, Canada, the United States, Australia, New Zealand and Argentina, have more food than they need, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization reported today.

The rest of the countries are getting hungrier, a survey put before the organization's sixth world conference added.

The survey included neither Russia nor any of its satellites, which are not F.A.O. members. All that is known of their food situation is that harvests this year have been reported above normal due to excellent weather.

Argentina, said the report, still has a food surplus to export though her production actually has decreased since the war. In the United States and Canada there have been large increases in food output, while Australia and New Zealand have maintained their surplus at prewar levels and also have fed considerably increased populations of their own.

The other countries, with nine times as many people, not only lack surpluses but production is slightly below Second World War levels and food supplies per person, due to population increases, average only 90 per cent of the 1934-38 output.

New Hope For Truce By Dec. 25

MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 21 (AP) — Truce hopes brightened today when Communist negotiators submitted a cease-fire plan of their own that could open the way for a Korean armistice by Christmas.

It was similar to a United Nations' plan for creating a buffer zone along the present fighting line, to take effect if an armistice is signed within 30 days.

A U.N. command communique referred to the resemblance as superficial.

But the command's official spokesman, Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, said if the Red plan "means what we think it means . . . then I think we are very close to solution" of the buffer-zone question.

The point in doubt was whether the Communist proposal means "that troops will be withdrawn from the buffer zone after an armistice is signed," as the U.N. has proposed.

After the Communists submitted their counter-proposal Wednesday, Allied negotiators tried to determine whether the Reds contemplated an immediate or delayed withdrawal from a buffer zone to be created along the present front.

At the close of the session Maj.-Gen. Henry I. Hodes, heading the U.N. sub-committee, told the Red delegates "We will present you with the necessary revisions to clear up this proposal" at Thursday's meeting.

Charges Reds Carrying On Campaign Of Murder

PUSAN, Korea, Nov. 21 (UP) —South Korean President Syngman Rhee charged today that the Communists have begun systematically wiping out millions of pro-Allied North Koreans.

He confirmed an Eighth Army war crimes report that the Reds already have slain 7,000 South Korean troops and 250,000 South Korean civilians and added:

"In addition . . . they are right now carrying on a campaign of murder never before exampled in the history of civilized man. Millions of Korean citizens in North Korea are being systematically starved and frozen to death.

"All of those who joyously welcomed the liberating armies a year ago are marked for destruction. They are forced to give up all their food supplies as proof of renewed loyalty to the Communists.

"Warm clothing and bedding is taken from them. They are left nothing, and the sooner they die, the better it pleases the bestial invaders."

Rhee said the South Korean government welcomed suggestions that Communist leaders be tried for war crimes against Allied war prisoners and civilians.

He said the murders of South Korean troops and civilians reported by Col. James M. Hanley, chief war crimes investigator for the Eighth Army, comprised "deliberate and cold-blooded mass killings."

Sure refreshin' t' see folks turnin' out fer a look at their council in action. That's democracy on th' job.

Cops are gonna lose a lotta goodwill if they start gettin' prejudiced about who goes t' their ball.

Let's not forget—it's th' stature o' th' councillors, not th' size o' th' council, that counts.

HEART-BREAKING DECISION

Parents Decide To Let 3-Year-Old Rodney Die

ALAMEDA, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—The distraught parents of three-year-old Rodney Gale have made a heart-breaking decision—to let him die of cancer as soon as possible.

It was one of the toughest decisions a parent could be called upon to make.

A hospital doctor told Mr. and Mrs. LeeRoy Gale that a nitrogen-mustard compound might keep the spark of life alive in Rodney's pain-wracked body for two or three months more.

"We thought about it for a long time," said 29-year-old Mrs. Bonnie Gale Tuesday night.

"Then we decided against it. It would only prolong Rodney's misery. And he's miserable enough now."

Death may come at any time. Already Rodney has had his Christmas tree and toys. But he scarcely was able to know it.

Rodney became ill last August. Doctors operated and found cancer cells were filling his body.

They told the parents there was nothing more they could do.

The 33-year-old father laid off work as a freight handler to be with his son.

Breathing for Rodney became laborious. He couldn't walk, scarcely could eat. All he wanted was to ride. His father took him daily in cars loaned by neighbors.

Staying off work erased Dale's slim funds. Last Saturday the word of his plight got out to the newspapers.

The story brought an outpouring of generosity.

Callers brought hams, turkeys, home-canned delicacies, toys and a decorated Christmas tree.

Tuesday Dr. Luigi Luzzatti offered the gift of medical aid—an offer to retard the growth of the cells with a drug. He made it clear that Rodney would die anyway — but perhaps not until Christmas was over.

Tearfully the Dales searched their hearts and came up with the answer they felt was best. It was "no."
